

JAPANESE BOMBARD PORT ARTHUR FOR THREE DAYS

NEW YORK, March 5.—There has been a three-days' bombardment by the Japanese of Port Arthur, according to a Herald dispatch from Tien Tsin and timed at half-past eight this (Saturday) morning.

The attack was kept up at intervals on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Japanese ships attacking the town were in action first at a distance of nine and three-eighths miles from the forts, and then they drew closer, their range being four and three-quarter miles.

Russian Warships Are Now On the Cruise.

Emperor of Korea is Very Friendly With Japan.

CZAR'S MEN ARE MAKING FUN OF MOVEMENTS OF JAPANESE.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—The continued dearth of war news from the front does not occasion surprise here, as the Russians are proceeding deliberately with their plans, serious land operations not being expected for several weeks. However, minor collisions in North Korea may occur at any time.

The report of Major General Pliginskii, chief of staff of Viceroy Alexieff, that the stacks of a Japanese cruiser, sunk near Chemulpo, have been seen, confirms the theory entertained from the first that the Japanese are following their traditional policy of concealing their losses.

The disappearance of the Japanese fleet from Port Arthur after its failure has created merriment here, one paper remarking that it has donned the invisible cap, straddled the carpet and may land next in the ice in front of St. Petersburg.

The Gazette this morning attributes the less unfriendly attitude of the United States and Great Britain toward Russia to the fact that they are commercial nations and realize that the war will cost a tremendous amount of money, and that Japan will not have the walkover anticipated.

Madame Pousep of Riga, who desires to be enrolled in a Cossack regiment, is urging her petition. She is 33 years old, was reared under the patronage of the late Czar, Alexander III, is a fine horsewoman, a good shot and handles rifle, revolver and sword equally well, often taking part in the cavalry maneuvers. Madame Pousep is also qualified as a Red Cross nurse, but she says there are enough women nurses, and she wants to show that a woman can fight. If her petition is rejected, she will go at her own expense and serve as a daughter of the regiment.

A naval expert, writing to the Novosti, predicts that Korea will prove a mouse trap to the Japanese, adding that "not one hundredth part of the yellow Napoleons will get out alive."

The weather at Port Arthur during the last few days has been much warmer, indicating the approach of spring.

Many fast locomotives are being sent from European Russia to Siberia.

TOKYO, March 5.—An Austrian steamer which has arrived at Hakodate from Vladivostok reports that the Russian squadron left Vladivostok on February 29. It is presumed to be cruising in Northern waters with the hope of capturing Japanese merchantmen. Another report says that two Russian war vessels have been seen off Usutu Bay.

Admiral von Hake do not mention any attacks on Northern ports.

The steamer Ekaterinoslav, of the Russian volunteer transport fleet, which had been fitted up as an auxiliary cruiser; the steamer Manchuria, belonging to the Chinese Eastern Railway Company; the schooner Silepner, and the steam launch Wuland, have been declared prizes of war by the naval court at Sasebo. The decision of the court is subject to an appeal within thirty days.

RUSSIANS MOVE TO THE NORTH.

SEOUL, March 5.—The Russians who recently retired from Andu to Puk Cheng, are reported to have moved northward from the latter place.

EMPEROR OF KOREA SENDS REPLY.

TOKYO, March 5.—The Emperor of Korea has sent the Mikado a cordial reply to his personal message, assuring the former that war with Russia was declared solely with a view of securing permanent peace and expressing the sincerest wish that the protocol recently concluded between Japan and Korea will increase the intimacy of those two countries. The Korean ruler appears determined to maintain friendly relations with Japan.

The British Minister at Seoul is pressing the Korean Government to define the extent of the district included in the opening of the port of Wiju, on the Yalu river, to the commerce of the world.

WILL CLOSE THE SUEZ CANAL.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—A report that the Egyptian Government has decided to close the Suez canal to the belligerents, is discussed seriously in the newspapers here, but is laughed at in official circles, where it is pointed out that the international regulations are of a cast-iron character and cannot be changed by Egypt.

The Jewish farming colony in Kherson province has voted to donate $5000 for war purposes.

DREYFUS GRANTED APPEAL

PARIS, March 5.—The criminal branch of the Court of Cassation today granted the appeal of Alfred Dreyfus for a revision of his trial at Rennes.

The court held that a sufficient showing had been made to warrant a reopening of the case and ordered a supplementary investigation for the purpose of establishing all the doubtful points which have been the basis for the present application to reopen the case.

The decision is another marked success for Dreyfus, although it is not yet final, owing to the extended supplementary investigation which must follow the court's decision.

German Field Marshal Dies At Home in Hanover.

Commanded Allied Forces on the March to Peking.

HANOVER, Prussia, March 5.—Field Marshal Count von Waldersee died shortly after 5 o'clock this evening.

Field Marshal Count von Waldersee entered the Prussian army in 1855 and soon distinguished himself for his aptitude in military capacity.

He served with distinction in the Danish war and also in the war with Austria.

In the Franco-Prussian war he was the aide-camp of Emperor William and afterwards took command of one of the German army corps.

He succeeded Von Moltke as chief of staff and inspector-general of the German army.

He was also for a time Minister of War.

He commanded the allied forces on the march to Peking, which was his last active field service.

SAMUEL A. GROFF SENTENCED.

GETS TWO YEARS AND FINED TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Justice Pritchard today overruled the motion of Samuel A. Groff, one of the recently convicted defendants in the postal trial, and sentenced him to two years' imprisonment in the Moundville Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $10,000, sentence to begin on arrival at the penitentiary. Groff immediately furnished bond for $20,000, pending trial.

CHOKED TO DEATH TO ROB.

ALLEGED MURDERERS OF AGED WOMAN ARE UNDER ARREST.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 5.—Joseph Trujillo and his wife have been arrested and charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Ann Boone, aged 70, who was killed in her bed in a room adjoining that occupied by the Trujillos. Mrs. Boone apparently had been choked to death after being made insensible by a blow on the head. Robbery was the motive for the crime.

SCENE AT THE CITY HALL STABLES THIS MORNING.

Property Was Not Insured and is a Total Loss—Dr. Walker, Dr. Larkey, Dr. Ewer and Others Lose Heavily

One of the fiercest fires in the history of Oakland broke out last night in the City Hall stables, adjoining fire engine house No. 1, 160 feet from the City Hall, thoroughly gutting the stable and resulting in the death of one man, Dennis Manning, a hostler, and the destruction of forty-eight horses, many of which were considered the finest driving horses in the city.

Edward Sullivan, another employee of the stable, who was also asleep in the burning structure, had a miraculous escape from being burned to death.

As it was he suffered a fractured arm by jumping from the loft and severe burns about the face and arms.

The guests of the Hotel Touraine, which fronts on Fourteenth street, were aroused by the police.

They suffered some from panic, but their fears were eventually quieted. The fire was undoubtedly the act of an incendiary.

The total loss is between $12,000 and $15,000, with no insurance practically. Nearly all the vehicles were damaged.

FIRE DISCOVERED.

The fire was discovered by N. A. Koser, vice-president of the Bowman Drug Company, and his wife, while they were returning home from a visit to friends.

The flames were just beginning to burst through the front windows.

Mrs. Koser proved herself a heroine by awakening the firemen who were asleep in the adjoining building. She hammered so lustily on the door that it was not twenty seconds before the first fireman had slid down the pole and was ready to fight the flames.

A still alarm was first turned in by touching off three bells.

This called the attention of Patrolman Nick Williams and Foreman Sam

Short of the Fire Department to the existence of the fire. As soon as they saw where the flames were issuing from they turned in another alarm from the City Hall. This alarm was 61.

The still alarm, taken in conjunction with the City Hall alarm, made the first fire bell read box 361. When the alarm was given the second time this was remedied and the proper alarm sounded.

SCENES OF CONFUSION.

When the firemen arrived on the spot

there was a scene of indescribable confusion. Already the flames had licked up all of the inflammable material, such as hay and straw, and was burning with the intensity of a blast furnace.

Great volumes of smoke were forcing their way through the roof and the apertures on the four sides of the building. As the fiery tongues darted from all directions, striking the imprisoned horses with the fury of a

PRIESTS AND SERVANTS ARE BURNED IN FIRE.

Roman Catholic Church and Rectory At Long Island is Destroyed.

NEW YORK, March 5.—One priest and two servants were killed and two other priests were severely injured in a fire that destroyed St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church and the adjoining rectory in Long Island City today. Those killed were the Rev. Father Ernest and Mary and Margaret Brady, domestics. Those injured are the Rev. Joseph Kearney and Rev. Father Hennigan. The money loss by the fire was estimated at $35,000.

Father Ernest is believed to have lost his life while trying to save the two women.

The rectory was a three-story brick building with an attic. The two women slept in the attic and the priests had apartments on the second and third floors. The fire, which started in the passageway connecting the church and the rectory, spread to both structures with great rapidity, and by the time firemen reached the scene the whole rectory was ablaze. Father Kearney made his way down stairs through the blinding smoke and escaped into the street. He was injured about the face and hands, having been cut and bruised while groping his way through the smoke.

Margaret and Marie Brady, who are sisters, appeared at a window of the attic just as the first fire company arrived. A ladder was hoisted, but it was too short to reach the attic, and before a longer one could be raised they fell back into the flames. Nothing has been seen of Father Ernest and it is believed he had tried to make his way to the attic to save the women and was overcome by smoke before he could reach them. He was 27 years old.

St. Patrick's church was the largest in Long Island City.

Home of R. A.
Smith.

R. A. Smith of 1721 Sixteenth street, while attempting to repair some gas fixtures today caused an explosion which resulted in shaking his residence nearly off its foundation, blowing out the front windows on both the upper and lower floors of the cottage and badly burning himself.

Mr. Smith was trying to act as his own plumber and made various connections with the gas pipe. In so doing he permitted a large amount of gas to escape in the front room upstairs.

On entering the room he noticed the presence of the gas in large quantities and attempted to locate a leak by lighting a match. The result was an explosion which was heard 200 feet away.

The windows in the upper rooms were blown out entirely, while the windows in the lower room were badly shattered. The cur. ins and light inflammable material were ignited by the explosion, but no further damage was done.

Mr. Smith was knocked down by the force of the explosion and his face and hands were seriously burned.

The flames were extinguished before it became necessary to summon the fire department.

WATER
SOLDTitle Settled and Land
Brings $40,400
at Auction.

An important sale of Oakland waterfront property was made at noon today by J. B. Larktree as referee in a suit in partition brought by Alice A. Doane against W. C. Parsons and others. The land in question lies on the south side of First street on Webster street to the bulkhead and was sold to C. H. Holbrook for $40,400.

The land has been the subject of litigation for years and a final decree was only recently handed down by the Supreme Court vesting the title of the land in Alice A. Doane, W. C. Parsons and the heirs of John D. Darnen, each getting a third of the land which was ordered sold and the cash divided among them. The sale today was the result of this decision.

There were a number of bidders for the property. Parsons himself took a hand in it and tried to buy the land for himself. Dr. W. D. Huntington, and A. P. Holland besides a member of the real estate firm of G. H. Umhisen & Co., representing Holbrook were the principal bidders. The property was sold in two pieces. The first piece was started at $10,000 and was knocked down to Umhisen for $25,400. The second piece sold for $15,000 Umhisen securing this also.

The land is occupied by the Cons Bay Coal Company, Chas. H. Butler & Co., the Oakland Wood and Coal Company, the Oregon Coast and Navigation Company and John Heitholt who keeps the "First and Last Chance" saloon. It is the intention of Holbrook to make extensive improvements in the property and build wharves along the water front.

In the early history of Oakland the land was taken up by Parsons, Doane and others for oyster beds. John L. Davis had a piece of the land and there was considerable trouble in getting him off and finally he was given $3500 for any interest he might have acquired. The Oakland Water Front Company was the successor to the title to most of the property owned by those interested in the oyster beds but this piece they still retained. The land has a frontage of 250 feet on the harbor and runs up 330 feet on Webster street.

JAPAN
TO THE
POWERS.Says Russia Fired First Shot of the War.

TOKIO, March 5.—Japan addressed a note to the powers today in response to the recent communication from Russia. The note has not been published here and its contents are unknown.

Russia's various communications to the powers attacking Japan for her conduct of diplomatic negotiations before their rupture, her attack on Russia without declaring war and her alleged violation of the neutrality of Korea, have been received in Japan largely in the spirit of amusement.

The Japanese resent what is alleged to be a deliberate attempt to place them in a false position regarding certain incidents, but in the main do not take the correspondence seriously.

Responding to the charge of violating the neutrality of Korea, they point to the attack of Russia in Manchuria, where thousands of troops were assembled long before a diplomatic rupture occurred. They deny that they are fully prepared to accept the judgment of the world on a comparison of their course in Korea, that he was landed troops only after a state of war existed, and upon the written permission of the Emperor of Korea. They deny that Chemulpo was a neutral port after the Japanese landed on February 8, but whether it was neutral or not, they say, Russia began hostilities there before a diplomatic rupture occurred.

When the Russian gunboat Korietz steamed out of the harbor of Chemulpo in the afternoon of February 8 she opened fire on the Japanese squadron, making the opening shot of the war. The Japanese torpedo boat destroyers answered the fire and discharged two torpedoes before the Korietz retired. The Japanese fleet then proceeded to the justice and strength of their original position on the integrity of China and the fairness of their proposals for the negotiations. They feel fully justified in commencing hostilities after breaking off diplomatic relations and serving notice of their intention to take independent action. They are sure that their recent assurance that they had no intention of making possession of Chinese territory and would guarantee the integrity and independence of Korea will be accepted by the powers.

Mr. Webber, in answer to a request for one of the circulars said none and no record had been kept of them.

"No doubt," he said, "one could be obtained from one of the Eastern houses to which they were addressed. There is nothing to conceal about them."

Was President Smith's name connected with them? he was asked.

"Why, yes," Mr. Webber answered, "President Smith is at the head of the list and of course his name was attached."

WILL JOIN THE SQUADRON.

U. S. NAVAL ATTACHE WILL BE GIVEN SPECIAL FACILITIES.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—It is possible that the authorities will arrange to give Lieutenant Newton E. McCuller, the United States naval attaché with the Russian navy, special facilities over the Siberian railroad to join the Russian squadron. He will come here immediately from London.

The military attaches will proceed from St. Petersburg, that all the powers except the United States and Great Britain, replied to Russia's note, communicated to her Ambassadors abroad and given out February 23rd, agreeing with the Russian view that Japan had violated the neutrality of Korea is incorrect.

The Foreign Office explains that Russia lodged this protest with powers without requesting an answer, leaving them free to express opinions or not as they pleased. At the same time, the correspondent of the Associated Press gathered that the powers were expected to declare themselves on the subject at some time in the future.

FRAUD IN THE POSTOFFICE

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS OF P. O. BILL IS MADE PUBLIC.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The report on the postoffice appropriation bill, containing a summary of the contents of the bill, made public at the time of its completion, was filed in the House today.

The report is accompanied by a statement of the views of the minority, signed by Representatives Moon, Griggs, Cowherd, Finley and Krutz.

Mr. Moon also submitted some views of his own, condemning railway mail subsidies and the provision in the bill for the lease of fifty years of postoffice facilities of the New York Central Railway in New York City. In the minority report proper investigation of the postoffice bill is urged.

The conclusions of the Bristow investigation are made a part of the report, which is declared to be a disclosure of "staggering corruption in the division investigated and a method of doing business naturally conducive to fraud."

The report then states that this investigation was confined largely to one division and it is impossible to say whether or not the same corrupt methods obtain in other divisions.

The business intercourse between the divisions makes such a condition possible, it says, and some system of checks is recommended so that fraud could not easily be achieved. The minority report concludes on this subject:

"In view of the interesting report mentioned and of the hearings and detailed proof furnished by the department, the Committee of Improper conduct of postoffice officials and of the charges against the other divisions of the department and the methods of obtaining facts as to the conduct of affairs in that office, would be the part of wisdom that the House should proceed to a full and complete investigation of the Postoffice Department in all its departments for the betterment of the service, the prevention of frauds and the general protection of the public interest."

TELLS ABOUT THE POWDER TRUST.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 5.—Colonel William Dupont, president of the Dupont Powder Company, said today that some of the statements contained in the San Francisco dispatch with reference to the California Vigorite Company and the Dupont Powder Company are incorrect.

The latter company, he says, does not control the fuse companies on the Pacific Coast and is not seeking to monopolize the business there. While it is true that the Dupont Powder Company has negotiated for an exchange of stock between the California Vigorite Company and the Dupont Powder Company, and the exchange of that stock is now being completed. We have no interest in the Jackson Dynamite Company or the fuse companies.

Mr. Dupont said his companies had controlled the California Powder Company for the past forty years.

By walking on the ceiling!

Russia and the War of the Rebellion

A great deal of nonsense is being printed about the alleged aid Russia gave the American government during the War of the Rebellion. Russia gave no aid to the government, only exhibited marked friendliness, accompanied by unofficial expressions of sympathy. The only act of Russia that can be construed as a service was her refusal to accede to Louis Napoleon's proposition that the Powers recognize the Confederacy and thus release the ports of the South from blockade.

But Russia's refusal to join France and England in this move was dictated by no love for republican institutions, and no regard for the principles for which our national government stood. Russia was then herself a slave nation, some twenty millions of her inhabitants being in bondage fully as abject as that under which the blacks of the South groaned. Then, as now, Russia was opposed to every principle of free government.

What, then, dictated Russia's refusal to join with France and England in recognizing the Confederacy? Remember, England never agreed to the tentative proposition of the French Emperor, for his proposition was never made in due diplomatic form.

Resentment at France and England and natural opposition to insurrectionary movements.

Our Civil War broke out only five years after the Crimean war closed. In that war England and France had combined to break the military power of the Moscovite Caesar, and arrest his advance to the Bosphorus. Russia was humiliated and humbled, her armies defeated, her fleets destroyed, her stronghold at Sevastopol captured and dismantled. She was compelled to conclude an ignominious peace and to restore provinces she had seized from Turkey.

In 1861 she was burning for revenge. She was powerless to interfere actively in our behalf, but she could make an idle demonstration that she thought would be offensive to France and England. Beyond that she dare not go, could not go. After the Trent affair she sent some warships to New York and San Francisco, but her diplomatic representatives were careful to assure France and England that no offense was meant and that she had no intention of interfering.

The Russian officers hobbled with American officers, toasted the national cause and drank deep to the confusion to Jeff Davis and the success of the Union cause. That was all. It amounted to nothing in a practical way. Russia was in no position to fight. Her treasury was empty, her army shattered, and her navy weak. She would not have lifted her hand if England had declared war on account of the seizure of Mason and Slidell, and there is every reason to believe that England never had any intention of recognizing the Rebel government. If she had intended to do so, Russia could not have stopped her.

At that time England and France monopolized the naval strength of Europe. Either could have swept Russia from the seas in a trice. Germany and Italy were still disunited, Austria had no navy, Spain was impotent, and the smaller European nations were without interest in our question.

We have exaggerated the importance and effect of friendly demonstration and kind words that came at a time when we hungered for sympathy, and we have ascribed those kind words and friendly demonstrations to a wrong cause. We thought the Russians loved liberty because they hated rebellion; we mistook hatred for France and England for friendship for the United States. We did not stop to consider that the knout was falling on white backs in Russia much harder and oftener than it was on black backs in the South. We did not reflect that Russia was opposed to insurrection in America because she dreaded insurrection in Poland. In short, we have transformed empty compliments into a mighty service.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says Grover Cleveland and William J. Bryan are the upper and neither millstones. Colonel Watterson appears to feel that he is destined for the sour mash.

By the time they get through with Japan the Russians will probably have less inclination to tackle Uncle Sam.

It is now proved that the complaints of the Russians regarding the conduct of the officers of the Vicksburg at Chemulpo were utterly without reason. The Vicksburg extended prompt aid to the Russian wounded, and tried to aid the survivors in every way. After all the bawling about Japanese treachery it also appears that the first shot was fired by the Russians. These examples illustrate Russian veracity and disposition. Further illustrations are furnished by the outrages inflicted on Japanese non-combatants in Manchuria. In spite of all its Christian professions, Russia is still essentially a barbarian nation.

The National Committee Chairmanship

Senator Hanna would undoubtedly be at the head of the Republican National Committee had he lived and recovered his health. His death renders the selection of a new chairman necessary, and as the campaign is nearing, interest is naturally aroused as to who the mantle of leadership dropped by Hanna will fall upon.

Ex-Governor Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, has been suggested as admirably fitted to conduct the next campaign, but Governor Crane is very much averse to assuming the role of political manager, and will not do so unless the President requests him to do so in such terms as to make refusal scarcely permissible. Governor Odell of New York has been called to the White House for consultation, and he is accordingly looked upon as the President's probable choice for chairman. He is regarded by Republican leaders as astute and capable. He exhibited marked capacity for political leadership while chairman of the New York Committee. He was at the helm when David B. Hill was overthrown and his carefully constructed machine smashed beyond repair.

Postmaster General Payne has also been suggested as a successor to Hanna. He is at present vice-chairman of the Committee, and in 1896 and 1900 managed the campaign in the west. But Postmaster General Payne is in delicate health. Besides, taking upon himself the management of the next campaign would compel his retirement from the Cabinet. It is hardly likely, therefore, that he will be elected chairman. The same may be said of Secretary Shaw.

Sensors Foraker and Dick of Ohio are both capable men, and so is Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, but there are internal party reasons that will probably operate against the selection of any of them. So Governor Odell seems the man most likely to step in Hanna's shoes as the National Chairman, provided Ex-Secretary Root cannot be prevailed on to do so.

Viceroy Alexieff complains that the Japanese warships have sailed away from Port Arthur and are keeping out of sight. Why does he not venture out and hunt them up? Perhaps he is afraid of the consequences of meeting the Mikado's fleet on the high seas. However, the neglect of the Japanese Admiral to keep the Russian Viceroy informed of the movements of his ships is a serious breach of naval etiquette, to which the Czar's diplomatic agents ought to call the attention of the Powers.

Now that the statue of Frederick the Great is to be set up in Washington, why not set up statues of a few more conquering kings—of Napoleon and Ghengis Khan, for instance?

It is continually asserted that the protective tariff is a burden and an injury to the agricultural industry, yet the agricultural industry in the United States is the most prosperous on earth.

The House Committee on contested elections decided that Livernash is to keep his seat. The country would be better pleased to know that he would be required to hold his tongue.

The Solano Republican threatens to discharge Congressman Metcalf for not having Suisun Slough dredged and straightened. Aus de spell, oh Dinkerspell.

Truth Telling in the Pulpit

If any class in the community more than another is expected, by reason of calling and profession, to refrain from evil speaking, that class is the clergy. They are—or should be—holy men. The religion that teaches truth and charity. It teaches brotherly love. Its fundamental idea is forgiveness and regeneration as opposed to condemnation.

Yet how often do we find intemperance of speech, loose assertion and unbridled denunciation in the pulpit? Instead of being mindful of the injunction not to bear false witness that God gave to Moses inscribed on stone, some preachers seem to think themselves absolved from the ordinary obligation morally and legally resting upon men to speak only the truth, in charging evil against others. The license of the pulpit in many cases exceeds the license of the most sensational newspapers. Reckless accusations, unsupported by proof, and uttered without investigation, are hurled from the altar with startling disregard of the legal penalties against libel and the divine command to tell the truth and refrain from evil speaking.

How many sensational sermons are based upon reliable direct testimony or have their allegations sustained by any independent investigation on the part of those who utter them? How often do ministers of the Gospel rise in the pulpit and charge offenses frequently of a highly criminal character against citizens and office-holders on no better testimony than common rumor or the biased statements of political opponents? How often are mere insinuations in the press turned into direct accusation in the pulpit? How often are assertions made in the pulpit that an hour's candid inquiry would have shown to be false?

When the sensational preachers are shown to have made false assertions and uttered false charges, do they stand up in the sight of men and acknowledge their error? Nay. They let it go at that. The injured must cure their hurts as best they can, the minister will not regret as publicly that which he uttered without warrant. He will privately acknowledge the truth and admit his error, but he will not do so publicly, excusing himself on the ground that his motives were good. Torquemada had the same excuse for setting up the Inquisition. John Calvin justified burning at the stake on the same grounds.

Because charges of the gravest character are so frequently made from the pulpit without proof or pretense of substantiation—without inquiry even—the most serious indictments of excitable clergymen are given no heed whatever. They are the subject of passing comment—of indignant protest, amused criticism and expressions of curiosity as to what next—but they carry no conviction to the public mind and inspire no resolution in the community. The wild harangues die out of the public mind as speedily as the hiss and sputter of the exploded rocket expire after the flight. This is a reflection on the veracity of the pulpit. It is evidence that the assertions made therein are popularly discredited—that is, the assertions made in regard to men and measures and current events.

No such discredit of course attaches to the utterances of the large body of clergymen, constituting the great majority of those in holy orders, who do not preach sensational sermons or make loose charges reflecting on the integrity of officials and other citizens who happen to be brought prominently before the public. A statement of fact uttered in the pulpit ought to be unquestioned and unquestionable. It should command the respect of authority, of proof, of conviction, of sincerity. It can command no such respect if uttered idly without proof or investigation, if presented on the testimony of irresponsible street gossip or rumors circulated by interested or prejudiced parties.

HINTS FOR THE LADIES.

A leading jewelry shop is showing some dinner plates in white and gold that sell for $100 apiece.

The new paraisols are nearly all chiffon trimmed, and many beautiful color combinations are seen.

The new cut glass designs are very handsome. Among the prettiest pieces are the basketlike shapes, intended for fruit.

Coarse-meshed linens come with an edge and fringe in colors. Others of these linens are plaited off into large squares by lines of colors.

Silver fruit baskets are made to resemble split baskets, the splits being in the silver and woven in imitation of the ordinary baskets.

Henrietta cloth that is delightful for making house gowns is now selling in double width for 50 cents a yard. All colors are shown.

A pretty black silk waist shown in one of the shops has a deep round berth of the silk draping the shoulders and this berth is trimmed with deep black silk fringe.

One can get a splendid value in voiles in brown, tan, blue and one or two shades of red, as well as gray, for 75 cents a yard. This is the double-width goods and is fine and serviceable.

One of the prettiest hats has as a head a single transparent green pebble, polished and set in prongs of gold. The odd shape of the pebble and its peculiar color make this hat very attractive.

One of the pretty fabrics for making waists and children's dresses is wool baidette. This goods can now be had at the sales for 20 cents a yard in all the pretty dainty colors and light shades.

A paper weight for the desk seen in the Japanese goods exhibition is very unique and artistic. On a polished base of dark wood are a flock of geese in white pottery, each goose as like as life. It is well worth the price as a work of art.

The newest belts for use with silk waists are the tinsel braid or silver ones. They are at least four inches broad and when fastened in front give a painted giraffe effect in the back. They are closed with gilt or silver frogs and have gilt or silver fringe tassels on the ends.

Very beautiful are the white embroidered robes that are now showing. They come boxed, are of fine white Swiss elaborately embroidered and about all one has to do is to put the skirt on a band and sew the waist up and put in the sleeves. They are very simple to put together.

Exquisite things for the toilette are shown in the shops in gold and tinsel and silver. These flowers and butterflies look like gauze, but are made of chiffon, which is dipped in silver or in tinsel after the ornament is made. Those in the form of flowers and butterflies are favored for evening wear.

JUST A CUP OF TEA.

A cup of tea! Now if you wanted to write of things social, you could not choose a better "motif" than a cup of tea. You see you could write about it in so many ways. There is the Russian hostess, who, all her life, has served tea from the time honored "samovar." She has taught her western sisters to dispense with cream, and serve it with lemon instead. There is the Chinese hostess, who teaches you to drink your cup of tea, just scalding hot. There is the Japanese hostess, who sits on the floor, and makes you a cup of tea in the most fascinating way.

There is the English hostess. All her life she has had a late luncheon, and she never has dinner till long after seven o'clock, and sometimes it is often eight. Five o'clock tea is a vital necessity with her. She has had it all her life, and has served it to her guests. And then there is the American hostess. Sometimes she is at her best, pouring out tea for her friends, and sometimes—well, sometimes she is otherwise!

We all know the hostess who makes a cup of tea while you are talking to her. She makes a very pretty picture as she does it, and you admire her deft ways, and the cheerful fashion in which she serves you.

Or else a perfectly trained servant brings in the tea tray, and you enjoy the touch of home life,—the good fellowship,—the near comradeship you can develop over a cup of tea!

And there is the fussy little hostess,—who makes you tired just to watch her. Everything is so much trouble, that you wish she would stop, and never mind the old cup of tea. Perhaps she disappears and you keep yourself company in the drawing room while she is gone. You're not very good company, for you want to say things. And she brings your cup of tea,—and you know it has been a very great deal of trouble. And then she won't take a cup of tea herself, and that is a delightful break,—because then she doesn't get the social element out of the situation. You think to yourself,—she might pretend to drink it,—even if she does not want it!

Of course, you wouldn't expect it of her, if she had a large number of callers,—but if you happen to be the only one you like a little touch of the informal.

Just that little matter of serving a cup of tea, will determine a great deal about a hostess and her home. Either she is a woman of the social world, who has had things all her life,—or she is trying to live up to a standard she has set for herself, and she is finding it mighty hard work.

WEARY AND WORN OUT.

One of our prominent women was at the Ebbel Club the other day, looking weary and worn out. And a friend of hers remarked: "Yes, she is tired,—you see she is always putting her best foot forward."

"I should think she'd be lame," retorted her friend.

And that is just it. She was lame, socially lame.

She was always trying to imitate somebody else. She had to live up to her neighbor's social standards,—and, as she hadn't the money to do it with life was a struggle, and the story of the effort was written on her face.

She might be a charming hostess, and life might be worth while for her, if she would be frankly herself, and not a very badly done copy of her neighbor.

The woman who is like everybody else isn't interesting in the least. It is the woman who is unique and original, and who presents to you her own ideal of womanhood, who is truly fascinating.

MEN ALWAYS TELLING STORIES.

Men are always telling stories of the days of "49"—that is if they have been here. They are charming stories told by these old Argonauts. But how seldom you hear the women of those pioneer days narrate their experiences. They are nearly all members of the smart set, and some of them among its leaders. But gowned in Parisian frocks, and sparkling diamonds, memory for them never seems to fare back of the days when they crossed the plains, or came "around the Horn."

The men of the family speak of it quite frankly, when "mother" is not around. But let her appear on the scene, and her eagle eye seems to command silence and you know that the days of "Forty-Nine"—the days when she crossed the plains, when she saved in a mining camp, is a subject tabooed.

And yet, it is really the most charming thing about her,—for you have heard what a heroine she was in those far off days. You have been told how, when the men were ill, it was she who guided the oxen over the desert wastes, and how fearless she was among the hostile Indians. You know that she did her share in the primitive camp life, to earn that success which has meant these Paris gowns and all those sparkling gems.

You have a profound conviction that you would have liked her very much better, in the old mining days in the mountains than you like her now,—when she is "putting on airs over her neighbors," and trying to do the social and, trying to be the "grande dame"—and who would like to keep other people out. The Lady of the days of Forty-Nine! She is a character in the Far West, and if you mingle much

In the smart set, you will find her a study, very much worth while.

And you wish she would tell her story in a book.

What a tremendous success it would make—that is, if she told the truth!

GRANDMOTHERS' ADVICE.

Our grandmothers used to tell us "to take time by the forelock." If they lived among us now, they would tell us to go slow. For social life shows a mad whirl, unrelenting, unceasing in the winter months. A New York paper calls attention to the facts that while yet the snows of winter lie thick upon the ground, the shop windows are filled with spring hats and summer fabrics.

And when New York is prostrate under the fierce heat of autumn, already furs begin to be taken out of cold storage. And so it goes—this projection of plans into the future. Now that spring is here, every household is getting ready for the summer.

A seamstress has dates for more than she can possibly hope to fill,—and the busy whirl of the machine, is heard in all the households of the land. For it has come to be a settled thing among the smart set, to move on when summer time comes. In the middle of last summer, you might have walked the length of Broadway, every afternoon in the week, and not have met any one you knew. Every household was away.

Of course, for years the men have had fishing and hunting trips,—but now, whole families go away, and do not return till school days beckon the children back.

Many of the families of the smart set try to have some country home, which is really home for the summer. It may not be a pretentious affair, but the family go there every year, and it develops home-like conditions. Just now, these many homes are being put in order, and the different members of the family run down for "a Friday till Monday" stay.

PALATIAL COUNTRY HOME.

The largest country home in our county is of course, the Hacienda del Pozo de Verona at Pleasanton, Mrs. Hearst's country home. It is open all the year around, but in summer time it is simply full of guests—one house party following another in rapid succession.

One meets people so well worth while there,—people who have won their way in the literary, artistic, and musical worlds. Men of letters are entertained at the Hacienda, and men distinguished in many walks of life. Guests are constantly arriving,—constantly going away—the roads are gay with the equipages from the Hacienda. Every afternoon the big telly ho carries a gay party of guests. The Hacienda probably entertains more guests in the year, than any other country home in the State.

Mrs. Hearst is now in New York, where she is being entertained by her son, Mr. William Randolph Hearst and his wife, but Mrs. Hearst will be back to the Hacienda this summer.

MISSION HOMES.

At Mission San Jose are the country homes of Hon. Victor Metcalf and the A. A. Moores. The Metcalfs have with them each summer, Mrs. Nicholson and Miss Viva Nicholson, and they find in the warm balmy atmosphere a great rest after the strenuous winter at Washington.

The A. A. Moores have an automobile in which they fly about the country roads. The roads or their own ranch have been constructed under the personal supervision of Mrs. A. A.

Moore, whose engineering skill is a matter of note.

On the Moore ranch is a large swimming pool, and here Mrs. John Valentine learned to swim so well that she saved her life when she fell off from a yacht into the Atlantic Ocean.

Mr. and Mrs. William Du Val have bought a fine country place near Sunol, and they spend the long summer months there, in much entertainment.

They entertain their nieces, the Misses Kent, and there is always an interesting house party.

NEAR JOAQUIN MILLER'S.

Out on the foothills, near Joaquin Miller's is Alden Farm, where the Will Magees spend long summers, much to the delight of the children.

IN THE SIERRAS.

The Sierras beckon one away from business cares,—though one has to go rather late in the summer. In the mountains of Siskiyou, the Prathers have their country home, which they have called by the picturesque name of "Forest Meadows." It was here that Mrs. Prather got the inspiration for her poem, "Mount Mahara."

The E. G. Lukens have a country home in Siskiyou, and each year they hospitably entertain house parties.

In the McCloud River district is the country home of Mr. Thomas Williams. The fishing lodge is built directly over the McCloud river, and the Williams entertain the Steeles, the Truxton Beales, and other friends, during the summer months.

Near by, is "Wynton," the recently finished country home of Mrs. Hearst. It is a superb structure, built in Gothic style, and furnished most appropriately to suit the conditions of mountain country life.

An automobile road is being built to Wynton, and then the transportation problem for that district will be solved.

THE BUTTERS' COUNTRY HOME.

Constantia, the country home of Mr.

Henry Butters is in Lassen county. It was named for the country home of the late Cecil Rhodes in South Africa.

A merry party of relatives and friends gather there each summer, and there are fishing and hunting expeditions, and camping trips, to add interest to the summer days. The Butters have built a charming little church near Constantia, which is very picturesque indeed, with many ornaments brought from churches in Mexico.

TOWARD LOS GATOS.

Down the Los Gatos way, you will meet many Oaklanders in the summer time. Here the Chickering have a charming "Bungalow," and this year Mr. Chickering hopes to regain his health and strength there.

Not far from Los Gatos, the Kittredges have their picturesque home, with its Spanish name, "Tres Encinas." They have gone there every summer for many years, and this summer they will have with them their daughter, Mrs. Frank Baldwin and their little son.

On the hill overlooking Los Gatos is the ideal country home of the O. S. Orricks. It also has a pretty Spanish name, "Vista del Valle," and here Mrs. Orrick with the family spends the entire summer.

The Wilbur Wilsons take a cottage each summer at Los Gatos, and they are thinking in the near future, of building a summer home of their own, in that pretty quaint little place.

The Coogans are also among those who make Los Gatos their abiding place during the summer.

SUMMER AT NAPA.

The quiet summer days at St. Helena carry their own rare charm. Mrs. Chabot is the very first one to close her town home each year and go to the country. For she loves "Villaret," her country home at St. Helena, much better than her home here.

The big house is always full of guests, and you will meet the Moffits, and the various ladies of Fabiola. There is always a merry party for the Fourth of July holidays. The young members of the family are familiar figures all through the Napa Valley, for they are very fearless riders, and spend long days on these country roads. In Napa Valley also, is the country home of the Joe Tobins. They have usually with them each summer the Tom Magees.

There are long automobile trips, and Mrs. Magee and Mrs. Tobin are picturesque figures,—neither of them ever wears a hat.

And in Napa also is "Silverdale," the ranch belonging to the Stanleys and Coghill. Mr. Edward Coghill spends all his time there, and is meeting with much success along farming lines.

CARDS

THE THING.

The Lenten season is in full blast and except for cards and a few—a very few—quiet luncheons and dinners,—nothing is going on. The truly pious renounce the theaters and dancing during the penitential season and the small excitements are all that are left. Most of the clubs will continue during Lent and many of them now close the season late in the spring with a theater and supper party or with a gathering at the home of one of their members. The score is carefully kept of the season's play but the reward is simply glory and prizes are rather strictly tabooed. It is just as well that prizes should go out of favor with clubs and that the playing should be for glory, for expensive prizes were much overdone. Without prizes, playing is likely to be far more honest, though no one accuses the club members of being anything but fair.

THE DAVIS INFORMAL DINNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis of East Oakland gave an informal dinner on Thursday evening of this week. Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Layman, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Craft and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert L. Curtiss.

FIVE HUNDRED.

On this side of the bay, Five Hundred is all the vogue and a fine, interesting game it is. Across the bay, no one seems ever to have heard of it and Bridge Whist is all the rage. As you may know, Five Hundred is only in its first season. It was brought here from the North late last summer by some card enthusiasts—I think it was by the Misses Huff of San Leandro. At any rate they learned it in Seattle and Spokane. It is probably the best of all the round table games, and it is certainly the best game for card parties, far exceeding seven handed or six-handed Euchre. Bridge Whist came directly from New York but it has been three years traveling across the continent.

No one plays it any longer in New York. In spite of the fact that it has merely inherited a cast-off garment, San Francisco is very "cocky" about its monopoly of the game on this Western slope. Some innocent Oaklander asked a San Francisco woman if she played Five Hundred. To which the San Franciscan loftily replied, "Oh, no, we finished with that last season. WE play Bridge."

The joke of it was that Five Hundred was not invented last season, whereas Bridge is four years old,—quite a strapping youngster, in fact.

WASTED TIME.

Excessive card playing is, I think, responsible for a good deal of wasted time. It would be far more profitable to form reading clubs or Shakespeare clubs, or current literature clubs, or even recent novel clubs. Cards have replaced the ancient sewing circle and in that respect are a good thing, as sewing while it occupied the fingers, left tongues far too idle and Satan finds some mischief for idle tongues to do. Cards are very well for occasional sociability but when it comes to three or four clubs a week, it is out of all proportion to a woman's home duties and the time she should spend in intellectual advancement. A woman may be ever so expert at cards and yet intellectually impossible and if one does not advance intellectually, one is sure to retrograde. Conversation is almost a lost art nowadays. Even good small talk is on the wane and the little-tattle of society is inane in the extreme.

Next year I hope to see card clubs and a good many other clubs, too, and among them let us have some to keep us abreast with the things that are happening elsewhere in the world.

NEW FROCKS FOR SPRING.

There is no Lenten quiet for the dressmakers for all of the shops are full of bright and beautiful preparations for spring. Among the latest importations are the printed nets which come in all shades and designs and are made over organdie or silk and sometimes over both. These lend themselves particularly well to the full skirts and gather or tuck beautifully. They need very little trimming and are not as costly as many of the winter's materials.

The velvet gowns have been laid on the shelf but velvet in tailor-mades will be worn a good deal this spring on the street. It is a stylish material when well-made, but, like velvet and corduroy is not the easiest thing to make. It does not hang especially well unless made very carefully.

One of the fashionable materials for street wear is pougee which comes now in an multitude of brown shades and bears little resemblance to the rough ceru Chinese silk of the name which was formerly the only pougee we knew. The new pougees are particularly good for soft tailor-mades and full frocks in the new full skirts and full sleeves. There is much protest over the gathered skirts. Only the very slender women really like them just as only the women with pretty, rounded hips really like the skin-tight skirts. There is no disguising the fact that the full skirts make the ordinary woman look much larger but they are the style and we must get used to them. One hears women vehemently declaring that they will not wear them, but that is all nonsense, of course. We shall wear whatever is in style and we shall come in time to like it, too. I remember hearing women declare that they would not wear the undersleeve, but they came to it, just the same, for it was the fashion and all the sleeves were so made. So it will be with the full skirts. Really, they go with the full sleeve below the elbow and the lace ruffle at the hand. We shall all look something like the girls in "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," but everyone admits that they looked charming. And I suppose you noticed how small these crinolines made the waist and hand and foot look. I think that must be where our grandmothers acquired their reputation for tiny hands and feet and for eighteen-inch waists, for I do not believe the race is growing larger. Of course, we'll never wear tilting crinolines again, but we will wear a modification of them in the gathered and flounced skirts.

By the way, some of the Oakland matrons who look the best in the new styles are Mrs. Bernhardt who has a flounced skirt of pale blue crepe and Mrs. Musser who looks exceedingly well in a changeable taffeta of pink silk made with three wide flounces. The flounces are trimmed with pink crepe and the bodice of the gown is formed of the same graceful material in pink effects.

THINGS MUSICAL.

There was quite a large representation of Oaklanders at the Twentieth Century Club concert on Saturday afternoon. A good many people from this side of the bay are among the associate members and the concert is really most enjoyable affairs with a sociable cup of tea, sandwiches and a punch afterward. On the program last week—the day being devoted to ballads and folk songs—were Mrs. Richard Bayne, who sang "Believe me if All Those Endearing Young Charms" most delightfully; Mrs. Susie Heyt Mark, who sang her German songs very pleasantly; several Russian songs and some fine old English ones, notably the "Vicar of Bray," which was robustly sung by Mr. Young. Mrs. Worthington Ames, formerly Norma Preston and Mrs. Ben Lathrop, formerly Belle Harris of Berkeley, were also on the program. The hall was crowded in spite of the threatening weather.

Among the Oaklanders present were Mrs. Edward Drayton, Miss McLean, Miss Chabot, Mrs. Stone, Mr. Wetmore and many others.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings of this week Bauer, the really great pianist, delighted hundreds of hearers at Lyric Hall. Tuesday evening the audience was not as large as it should have been but Thursday saw a crowded house for, however great a man's fame, it is San Francisco's way to wait for local approval before it flecks to any shrine. So the house was not as large as it should have been Tuesday but what it lacked in numbers it more than made up in enthusiasm. It encored everything and the master was very generous in his responses, repeating the shorter numbers and playing several new ones. The program on Thursday night was even more interesting and that for today, which is the last concert, promises to be no less so. Save only for Paderewski, Bauer is said to be the greatest pianist in the world and there is some dispute as to which of the two occupies the higher place. Paderewski, himself, with that generosity which is so characteristic of great natures, says that Bauer can do more things superlatively well than any other man on earth. Bauer was once the pupil of the marvellously magnetic Poles. As for me, I don't think any player will ever appeal to me as Paderewski does, but that is partially a matter of temperament on the part of the hearer and it is quite natural that one pianist should thrill one hearer more than another. One delightful thing about Bauer is that he is absolutely free from affectation and mannerism, and in this, is refreshingly different from most of the great pianists. He is a fine, clean-looking young man. Among the throng of musical enthusiasts, who listened most intently to Bauer's playing was Mrs. George Ashley, the Paderewski and Miss Bender. Naturally professional and good pianists are particularly interested in Bauer, as this is the first time he has visited us and his playing shows some absolutely new things in technique.

DONALD de V. GRAHAM'S FAREWELL.

Probably the most fashionable concert which ever took place in San Francisco was the Graham farewell last Saturday night. Steiner Hall was absolutely packed and many were turned from the doors, unable to find entrance. Mr. Graham's friends had sold out the capacity of the hall several times and, as there were no reserved seats, society for once was unfashionably early. Several informal and early dinners preceded the concert, after which the guests adjourned to the hall. Among the hostesses were Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels, Mrs. Eleanor Martin and Mrs. M. H. de Young. Mrs. Spreckels had among her guests the Honorable Blanchard Chase and the Dixwell Hewitts. Mrs. Hewitt wore a graceful, high-necked gown of pale blue crepe with white lace insertions. Mrs. Spreckels wore a white high-necked gown. Mrs. Martin had among her guests Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin, Miss Mary Jolliffe and Miss Linda Cadwallader.

THE DERBY HOUSE SOLD.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Derby in Linda Vista Terrace has been sold, though Mrs. J. J. Valentine will continue to occupy the house for some time to come. Mr. and Mrs. Derby are making their home in San Francisco and like it very much. One sees Mrs. Derby everywhere and this spring she is wearing a charming calling gown of thin black stuff, made up with flowered net. With this she wears a black hat trimmed with green leaves which is especially becoming.

MRS. BARTON IN CAIRO.

Mrs. Willard Barton is ensconced in Cairo where the diversions of the winter have relieved her mind and have materially lessened her nervous trouble. A speedy and complete recovery is hoped for.

IN THE SANTA CRUZ MOUNTAINS.

In the Santa Cruz mountains are many picturesque summer homes, notable among them that of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hussey at Ben Lomond. It has very fine appointments, and the wide veranda, with rare old rugs, is exceedingly picturesque. Miss Evelyn Hussey always has some of her young girl friends with her, and the family stay at Ben Lomond the entire summer.

E. A. Heron has a cottage there also, so has Honorable Guy C. Earl and Judge Hall has a pretty summer home at Felton which is not far from Ben Lomond.

Mrs. Macdermot, with Miss Flora Macdermot and Louis Macdermot, are still in Boston. They will probably not return for some time, as they expect to spend the summer on the Coast of Maine.

Mrs. Eleanor Folger goes East each summer to visit her daughter, Mrs. Tibbitts. And often some part of the summer is spent at Nantucket, which used to be the family home.

KITTREDGE RECEPTION.

Carls have been sent out this week for a large reception at the Kittredge home on Grove street. Mrs. E. H. Kittredge and her daughters, Mrs. Edmund Baker and Mrs. Frank Fowler Baldwin, will receive their friends on Wednesday, March 9th, from 3 until 5 o'clock.

Everyone is glad to be invited to the Kittredge home, for they always entertain so hospitably, and it has been a long time since they have all been over here among their old friends.

Mrs. Kittredge has spent the last two seasons across the bay. Mrs. Edmund Baker, who was Miss Ethel Kittredge, has been traveling a great deal, and we have not seen much of her during the last two winters.

Mrs. Baldwin's home is in the Hawaiian Islands, and she is here for a visit at the family home. It will be very pleasant, indeed, for their friends to greet all of them again in this happy way.

COME HERE TO RESIDE.

Mrs. M. J. Hawley and Miss Hawley, recently of Vermont, have come here to live, and receptions were given in their honor by Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Thomas Prather.

Mrs. Prather's "at home" in their honor was given last Tuesday and was a very informal affair.

The Prather home was a charming study in yellow, jonquils being used everywhere throughout the spacious rooms.

The home is a most artistic one, for Mrs. Prather is a connoisseur in pictures, and has some very rare specimens in her collection.

The guests were, for the most part, the intimate friends of the family, and Mrs. Prather was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. Harrison Clay, Mrs. Harry East Miller, Miss Laura Prather and Mrs. William High.

REUNION, ATLANTIC COAST.

Parmaster Richworth Nicholson is now in India, and expects to return home by way of Europe. Late in the spring he will be at Norfolk, Va.

His mother and sister may join him there, and, as the Metcalfs are in Washington, there may be a family reunion on the Atlantic Coast.

Parmaster Nicholson will have very interesting stories to tell, for he has been at Vladivostok, and all along the Russian coast, where the fighting is now going on. He was most hospitably entertained by both Russian and Japanese officers, and his stories of his sojourn in Far Eastern waters ought to prove of much interest.

RETURN FROM NEW ORLEANS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Isaacs and Master Isaacs will return on Tuesday from a trip to New Orleans.

Miss Lillian Isaacs has been the guest of Miss Gertrude Goull during the absence of the family.

Robert Fitzgerald returned this week from an interesting trip to Mexico.

NEW EBELL PRESIDENT.

March will be likely to prove a busy month for members of the Ebell Club, so many interesting dates have been planned.

On next Tuesday, there will be the regular luncheon, and one of the singers on the musical program will be Mrs. Frederick Stratton. Mrs. Egbert Stone is planning all the decorations for the luncheon.

Mrs. Gordon Stolp is to be the hostess for the large reception on the third Tuesday in March, and it promises to be one of the large "at homes" of the season.

There is much speculation in the club concerning the next president. Miss Mabel Gray has made such a very efficient president that she could hold the office as long as she cared to keep it. But she has been very ill indeed, and is only just now coming back to her old duties, and it is understood that her family is very unwilling for her to again assume the cares of Ebell. So there will probably be another president, and, consequently, there is much discussion in a quiet way.

OAKLAND BRIDESMAIDS.

Miss Ethel Kent has chosen two of her bridesmaids from this side of the bay, Miss Louise Hall and Miss Noelle De Golla, and they are both young enough to thoroughly enjoy the big military wedding. Mrs. Malcolm Graham will be matron and Miss Kathleen Kent maid of honor.

RECORD FOR JOLLY TIMES.

Many of the clubs are scoring successful dates, but the record for jolly times is held by our neighborhood Club. It was organized year ago by some friends who lived in the neighborhood of Myrtle and Linden streets. Most of them live there no longer. The Gorrills have gone to Piedmont, and the Williams Lettis Olivers to Vernon Heights. The Charles Snook are on Prospect Heights and Dr. and Mrs. Hayward Thomas have built a beautiful home also on Prospect Heights.

But they are all old neighbors just the same, and they are always planning unique affairs. One season they took long walks and the whole club had a picnic on Mt. Tamalpais.

They always usher in the New Year together, and they have several many a friendly reunion. The other evening they all met at the pretty Piedmont Clubhouse. There was a dinner followed by a card game, and later there was dancing.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Coogan, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Gorrill, Mr. and Mrs. Cope, Dr. and Mrs. Hayward G. Thomas, Judge and Mrs. Charles Snook, Mr. and Mrs. Yale, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kendall.

Our Neighborhood Club can give "cards and spades" to any other club in town, and still win the game of the jolliest time that may be going.

HUSBANDS ARE INVITED.

The members of the Cosmos Club are looking forward to a very pleasant evening in the near future at Mrs. Folgers. She is to entertain the club in her home on Jackson street and the husbands of the members are among the invited guests.

The Cosmos Club was entertained recently by Mrs. Q. A. Chase and the pretty prizes were won by Mrs. Paul Lohse and Mrs. Andrew Mosley.

AFTER LENT.

Two large affairs are scheduled to take place immediately after Lent. In Easter week, Mrs. Creed is to give a large "at home" at her residence on McClure street, in honor of Miss Isabel Hooper of Alameda, whose engagement to Mr. Wigginton Creed was recently announced.

Immediately after Lent, the ladies of the Fabiola Association will give a large whist tournament in Maple Hall. They are arranging all the details most carefully and it promises to be a large and very interesting affair.

AT SANTA BARBARA.

Mrs. A. L. Stone and her children, Mrs. Havemeyer and Miss Vera Havemeyer make up an interesting party which will spend the spring months at the Hotel Potter in Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lukens and Mrs. Aliender returned this week from a very pleasant trip to Santa Barbara and Southern California.

Miss Gertrude Allen is now in New York, where she is being entertained by friends. She expects to return to Oakland before Easter.

Mrs. Kimble and Miss Elsie Kimble have gone to San Francisco and are at the Plymouth, where they will spend the spring months.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chandler, formerly Miss Hattie Kimble, have taken a large residence in San Francisco and they expect to entertain extensively. They have spent the winter partly in New York and partly at the Elude Hotel. Mrs. Chandler is always among the most beautifully gowned of the young matrons of San Francisco.

MRS. IRVING BURRELL, A PROMINENT YOUNG SOCIETY MATRON.

PARDEE HOME.

Miss Florence Pardee, the eldest daughter of Governor and Mrs. Pardee, is entertaining a great deal this winter, her guests being, of course, young people of her own age.

Governor Pardee's home in Sacramento shows very beautiful appointments. It is a fine stately old mansion, just the kind appropriate for a gubernatorial residence. The money to furnish it was given Mrs. Pardee by the Legislature, and she has shown great care in its expenditure. There are handsome Wilton, Axminster and Brussels carpets all over the big house and the colonial furniture.

Mrs. Robert Burdette, Mrs. J. R. Scupham and Miss Babson were guests recently of Governor and Mrs. Pardee.

TRAVEL IN PALACE CAR.

The Buntings of Centerville are great travelers, and have gone East again, traveling, as usual, in a private car. They have taken as their guest Miss Helen Nelson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson.

MONDAY WHIST CLUB.

The Monday Whist Club will have its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Andrew Mosley on Madison street. Among the informal card parties of the week will be one given by Mrs. William Hubbard at her home on Vernon Heights.

MARRY EASTER MONDAY.

The date of the wedding of Edward Hume of Piedmont and Eleanor Eckert of San Francisco has been set for Easter Monday. It is to be a quiet wedding at the home of the bride, and the young people are to make their future home in San Francisco. Edward Hume has always been a prominent member of the Friday Night Club.

WHEN ONE MAY BE GAY.

In a social way, it has been a very dull week, with no events of importance to chronicle. It is always that way during the second week of Lent. It will soon be "Mi-Carema," the mid-Lent of the Parisians, when there is a breathing space, and it is permitted one to be gay.

Mrs. Walter Macroery and Mrs. Frank Carolan will give a "Mi-Creme" masquerade, to which some of our own smart set are looking forward to with much interest.

SPRING BUDS READY TO BURST.

And lo, the spring is here! If you have any doubts about it, go and look at the willow trees and watch the vivid green creeping up over the long, lichen limbs. Look at the dark boughs of all the other trees you know and watch the green buds just ready to burst forth. The almond trees are wrapped in a snowy wilderness of bloom.

But if you have any doubts about the spring time, just walk down a country road to the Pussy Willow tree. It will tell you all about it, for everybody knows that the Pussy Willow has the earliest messages from the coming spring time!

THE MEDDLER.

A wedding of interest will take place this evening when Miss Rhoda Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Howell of Berkeley, will become the bride of Fletcher Ames, son of the late Judge and Mrs. J. P. Ames. The First Unitarian church, where the ceremony will be performed, has been elaborately decorated with ferns and fruit blossoms of a pale pink tint.

The officiating clergyman will be Rev. N. L. Bosmer and the bride's attendants will be Miss Elsie Ames, maid of honor and Miss Charlotte Hall, Miss Edie Wade, Miss Katherine Sartori and Miss Eugene Mosser, bridesmaids.

James P. Ames will be best man and the ushers will be John Howell, Seymour Phelan, John Marshall and Charles Bosmer.

Miss Howell will be gowned in clinging white silk with a long train and bodice trimmed with rare lace. She will wear a long tulle veil held in place with a band of orange blossoms and will carry a shower bouquet of maiden hair fern. The bridesmaids will be gowned in pale pink silk.

After the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents on Dwight way, the guests including the relatives and near friends of the young couple. After a short luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Ames will make their home at the Ames ranch near Martinez.

An informal reception was given last Wednesday by Mrs. Henry East at her home in Hamilton place in honor of Miss Emeline Cuddelick, who is to be an Easter bride.

Mrs. Ames's guests were Miss Emeline Cuddelick, Miss Florence Cuddelick, Miss Salie De Vito, Miss Gail West, Miss Isabel Seal, Miss Grace Horton, Miss Frances Alexander, Mrs. W. K. Jenkins, Mrs. Charles Cussing, Mrs. Emerson, Mrs. J. A. Plunkett Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. A. B. Seal.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. William McMahon entertained a few friends in an informal manner Thursday evening at their home on Twenty-first street. Mr. and Mrs. Du Rose were the lucky scorers at a game of whist and the consolation prize was awarded to Mrs. Frank Folger. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Du Rose, Miss Marie Du Rose, Miss Mae and Tenz Kohler and Fred B. Badger.

MRS. KITTREDGE'S "AT HOME."

Mrs. E. H. Kittredge, with her daughters, Mrs. Edmund Baker and Mrs. Frank Fowler Baldwin, will entertain at a large at home to be given Wednesday, March 10. Mrs. Baldwin is on a visit here from Hawaii, and the coming affair will include many Oakland and San Francisco friends. It will be one of the largest affairs of the week.

TAKE A TRIP EAST.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bunting left for New York Thursday morning in their private car, "Elfrida." They will visit Florida, Cuba and the West Indies and plan to return in six weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Bunting's guests are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Huxley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crosby, Mrs. M. M. Maudsley, Miss Helen Keaton, Mrs. Henry G. J. Libby and Miss Edna Tretheway.

HARMONY CLUB MEETS.

Mrs. Fred Dorsey entertained the Harmony Whist Club yesterday at her pretty home. The guests of honor at the pleasant affair were Mrs. Whitehead and Mrs. Shankland. After the game of whist prizes were awarded to Mr. Chadwick and Mrs. Whitehead.

Mrs. Allen will entertain the club at its next meeting at her home on San Pablo avenue.

MISS GRAY RECOVERING.

Miss Mabel Thayer Gray, president of Ebell, is slowly recovering from her serious illness and is able to be out once more.

JUDGE QUINN AT HOME.

Judge James G. Quinn and his bride have returned from a honeymoon trip spent in the South.

THEY WILL BE AT HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Spiro will be at home to their friends Sunday, March 12, from 2 until 5, at 664 Sixth street, Oakland.

FRANK WHALLEY RETURNS.

Frank Whalley of Alameda has returned from a mining trip to Mexico. He will leave soon for Alaska to inspect mines there.

HARRY LAWRENCE'S TRIP.

Harry H. Lawrence will come to California soon with one of the leading New York companies.

SUMMER WOOF FOR WINTER WEAVING.

Sometimes, when the north wind is blowing, and we look through the pane at the snowing.

At a marble-white world out of doors—the heart crish out for the coming Of blossoms and birds, for the humming Of honey-winked bees in white-clover stores.

When violet vapors have hidden The pale evening fur as their guest, A picture of moon-laden mountains, Or fashing of fern-laden mountains, Leth still as a garden of rest.

As we sit in the twilight's gloaming, The spirit in the backing brings dream-

Of the summer's low-voiced monotone; And we close our eyes to the dancng Of fire-flicked figures, entwining Our souls with the thoughts of days that are flown.

So ever the Past doth enanour The shen of its exultant glamour May illumine the bitterest day; For under the frost there is something, And in the dead branches is wrothing Of hawthorn and lilacs for crowning of —Ella Barendsen in Boston Transcript.

Colds Are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be dismissed as "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy" equivalent any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures, and is pleasant to take. For sale by Osgood Bros., Seventh and Broadway.

GREAT CROWDS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE LIBERAL AND KIND OFFER OF ONE WEEK'S FREE TREATMENT.

The great number of patients who have taken advantage of the liberal and kind offer during the last twenty days has made it impossible to wait upon them or do justice to them; therefore, we have decided to extend the time for the free treatment twenty days longer. CONFERENCE OF EVANGELISM.
Definite arrangements are now being completed for the holding of a two days' conference on evangelism here in Oakland. The sessions are to begin on Monday morning, March 21, and continue through until Tuesday night. The conference is to be conducted under the auspices of the West Side Pastors' Union, and is to be strictly interdenominational. About twenty-five of the best speakers that can be secured in the district about the bay will appear on the program. There is to be a thorough discussion of present needs and conditions, evangelistic efforts, the world tour of Torrey and Alexander, the question of predictive signs, revival, the question of spiritual forces and practical methods.

The afternoon session of Tuesday, March 22, is to be devoted to the subject of personal evangelism. The last session of the conference will be devoted to the young people, and the day is being made to secure the co-operation of the Endeavorers, Epworth Leaguers and members of the Y. W. C. of Alameda county. The conference sessions will convene in the Union Street Presbyterian Church.

Directors—Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. William L. Oliver, Mrs. C. W. Randall, Mrs. E. C. Morrison, Mrs. F. P. Cutting, Mrs. M. C. Chapman, Miss Mary Barker, Mrs. Henry Burns, Mrs. Lillian Brown Everts, Mrs. M. E. Chadbourne, Mrs. Oscar White.

R. Rae, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Edgar Stone, Mrs. C. J. Snook, Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Ed. Randall, Mrs. A. Salem, Mrs. Charles Cotton, Mrs. McGlynn.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.
The eighth annual report of the Woman's Exchange as presented by Mrs. Lillian Sharon was as follows:

The year ending with the month of February 1904, has been a very satisfactory one.

The receipts have increased in every department.

There have been thirty-eight new consignors—seventeen have withdrawn leaving 110 enrolled at the present time.

Our list of subscribing members has not varied materially, three of the number becoming life members.

The improvement in the art sales have been the most noticeable feature.

While the receipts for the holidays did not equal those of the previous seasons in 1902, the sales for each month of the year were so much more, that there is a very creditable balance in the favor of that department for 1903.

The sales in the food department have not increased in the same proportion.

The receipts from the lunch room have shown a very satisfactory gain, which would be more apparent if we had not been obliged to cut down the accommodations one-half for the month of February.

We have not called upon the public for assistance in any way during the year, a fact which a few exchanges or charitable organizations of any kind can report.

Only the strictest attention to all expenditures enables us to carry on the work with no other income than the $3 a year membership dues, $1 each for consignors' fees and the 10 per cent deducted from the sales.

It was with great regret that we learned that the building which we had occupied for the last four years had been sold as it seemed to be so well adapted to our needs both as to location and accommodation. We all realized that it would be a long time before we could secure as sunny a store of the same size at any price.

The present store is offered to us, the building was rather blue—but some place we must have and this was the most available. We erected a corrugated iron kitchen in the rear of the building and in less than two weeks were informed that the adjoining store might be obtained.

The opening of the new lunch room on March 1 will be a matter of next year's report.

An arch has been cut between the two stores and when fully equipped the new store and the lunch room will present a very inviting appearance.

We shall be able to serve more customers than in our former location.

We have been able to reserve a portion of the main room for a small private dining room. It may fill the want so frequently expressed for such a purpose.

We would like to cover both stores with linoleum as the flooring is very old and full of splinters but for the present must be contented with a good coat of paint unless some philanthropic friend sees fit to assist us to that extent.

There are other things that we can not do without.

The treasurer's report will show a balance on hand which I regret will be greatly lessened when our repairs are completed.

The expenses of moving and making so many changes has already made a sal inroad on our bank account which we fondly hoped would one day reach proportions to justify us in calling it a building fund—but as we have an emergency fund also, we should feel thankful that we have been able to make these changes without incurring a debt.

When we moved on each previous occasion we were forced to borrow money to meet the bills.

For the coming year in order to defray the increased expenses of two stores and proportionate increased cost of operating the two, it will be necessary to add to our income in every possible way.

We need more encouragement from the community inclined in this community.

It is not necessary for every one so disposed to be a subscribing member. In order to help us, although we need many more on our list but if more would patronize the Exchange in its different departments, giving us orders for refreshments and buy their gifts for social entertainments, the result would be attained in another way.

Our employees are more earnest in their desire to advance the work and are most loyal to its interests which means the interest of both consignor and customer.

The directors and many of the managers have devoted themselves with untiring efforts to make the work a success and deserve the greatest praise.

I hope that more will take an active interest during this coming year and make it one productive of greater results in view of our greater needs.

Respectfully submitted,
LILLIAN SHARON,
President.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.
The work of the Woman's Exchange during the year 1903-4 has shown a growth in all departments. We have been fortunate in having employees in each department that enter into their work with a hearty goodwill for the Exchange and we feel that much of our success is due to their efforts.

During the year we have had to go through the process of moving our offices and business from the old location to new surroundings and although for a while we felt much crowded and home-sick, we have been able to extend our quarters and now feel that our rooms are most attractive.

The fact that we have been able to help so many women through our Exchange and have met with such hearty gratitude in many instances, makes the labor of the Exchange seem light.

So many families of little children have been kept together, so many old people helped to be self-supporting.

One person has been paid the sum of $123.25 for chickens and eggs alone during the year.

$1,500 has been paid in commissions to consignors and in salaries.

It is the aim of the Exchange to be as broad in its helping powers as possible and as many persons of the lunch room are self-supporting women, the policy of the Exchange will always be to give the best possible quality for the least possible price.

We have enrolled three more life members on our books.

We hope for an increased sympathy and support from the public in this most practical charity during the coming year.

ELIZABETH H. CUTTING, Rec. Sec.
TREASURER'S REPORT.
The report of the Treasurer, Mrs. E. C. Morrison, shows the following receipts and expenditures for the year 1903-4:

Receipts: $30,475.55; Disbursements: $29,118.15; net gain, $1,357.40.

Paid to consignors and in salaries during year, $19,509.55.

Income in business over 1902-3, $209.55.

The report of the Financial Secretary, Miss Barker, shows 110 consignors, 100 subscribers and 6 life members.

ENJOYABLE SMOKER BY FORESTERS.
The annual smoker of Court United States of America, No. 38, Foresters of America, took place in Pythian Castle Twelfth street on Thursday evening.

The apartment was crowded with delegates of Foresters from Haywards, Emeryville, Alameda, Oakland Imperial Justice Verano and New Era lodges.

Past Chief Ranger F. S. Lewin officiated as chairman with eloquence and great executive ability.

The money collected as fines for delinquency in the matter of entertaining will probably be spent to plant trees along Broadway and Washington street so that the Foresters will have something to parade in when they get the new green suits that Brother Morris Snyder has promised to donate to the court on his next birthday.

Chief Ranger William P. Courtney, on being called up for a few remarks stated that since the knockers and kickers had taken on the "nail" the evening thing had taken on a most auspicious appearance and he prophesied that before the year was over, Court United States would have its membership doubled.

This enthusiastic brother's remarks were loudly applauded.

Chief Ranger McCoy of Haywards made eloquent remarks pertinent to the welfare of Forestry.

Past Chief Ranger E. Troy (sur-named Hick) brought down the house with Italian song. Many present thought the warbling Forester should join the first operatic company that visits Oakland.

Brother Haley of Emeryville, sang anello ditties and told Sunday School yarns and was encored so many times that at the conclusion of his effort he was carried back to his seat by the patrol.

Past Chief Ranger Sam Mendelson and his smile were there and brought with them clever artists from the Novelty and Lively Theatres who entertained the audience with their clever impersonations and instrumental and vocal selections.

Brother Cahill, another Forester from the backwoods of Emeryville told how St. Peter received the aspirants for heavenly honors.

Brother Abe Cohen told several funny stories in his whimsical manner.

Sub-Chief Ranger Walter Isaacs of Court New Era gave a dialect act that every one present wondered as to whether he is a Miesian or a Hollander.

Brother McCoy on behalf of Court United States presented a beautiful past chief's gold badge to Past Chief Ranger F. S. Lewin. This brother also received a beautifully enlased past chief ranger's certificate handsomely framed, with enameled seal.

Brother Abe Cohen having brought in the largest number of members during the past fiscal year, received the very costly medal.

Past District Deputy Rhin made the presentation speech in his usual eloquent manner.

The banquet tables were spread with the delicacies of the season and standard eating brands.

Friday evening, March 11, the 9 o'clock performance at the Novelty Theatre will be under the auspices of the Foresters of America of Oakland. The house will be filled to overflowing.

REMEDY FOR CROUP.
Mrs. Mary Cress Writes Letter That Gives Valuable Information to Mothers.
The following letter has been sent to this office with the request to publish for the benefit of mothers whose children are subject to croup:

Editor of Tribune:
As there are so many dear children at this season of the year suffering with croup, I feel an earnest desire to let mothers know of a remedy for this dread disease.

This is in no way an advertisement, but I simply feel so very grateful for the wonderful relief my child has had that I want other mothers to know of it.

I have a little daughter, ten years old, who has had asthmatic croup since she was three months old, so bad she would have violent spasms. We spent hundreds of dollars without any relief until accidentally thought of using Hyomei. Since then she has not had a bad attack, and she always goes to bed with Hyomei under the pillow. I would rather be without flour in the house than without Hyomei. It is a Godsend to any mother whose children have the croup.

I will gladly answer letters written me concerning Hyomei. All I say is, if one is discouraged from any remedy, try this.

MRS. MARY E. CRESS,
Third and Commercial Sts.,
Atchison, Kansas.

Feb. 26, 1904.
Mrs. Cress recommends a remedy that is undoubtedly well known to our readers, as one of Oakland's leading druggists, Osgood Bros., have the local agency for Hyomei and sell it under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

Wouldn't it be PLEASANT for you to KNOW where you could invest a large FIFTY dollars upward and obtain a large MONTHLY dividend on the same without the slightest risk of loss to your principal at any time and free from any taint of speculation; where you can have it on demand at any time and where you get the best and highest class Nevada and BANK references as to the safety and solidity of the concern you are doing business with? A guarantee that covers over twenty years' successful business experience. WOULDN'T YOU? Or better still—wouldn't you like to have your money invested WITH such a concern? Others have it, and so can you. Only conservative and careful people solicited. Full particulars free by writing to W. H. Laitner, 111 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

TAKE AN OATH TO KILL.

Korean Conspirators are Landed in Prison.

They Are Opposed to An Alliance With Japan.

SEOUL, March 5.—Twenty members of the Feddars band are reported to have taken an oath to kill all officials who favor an alliance with Japan. The Japanese Minister, on being notified of this, promptly informed the Korean Government that if it did not arrest the conspirators the Japanese officials would do so. As a result, four leaders of the Feddars have just been arrested. The Cabinet decided today to reopen the railroad between Yonampur and Wiju. Work on all the gold mines operated by natives has been suspended and will not be resumed until the reconstruction of the Government is completed. A British gunboat has arrived at Chempo with foreign refugees from Song Chon on board.

U. S. GOVERNMENT REMAINS NEUTRAL.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—During the discussion of the naval bill in the Senate today reference was made to the common interests of the United States with Japan and England against Russia. Mr. Hale said he did not want that statement to go unchallenged. He said the attitude of the United States, asserted and declared by our State Department, was one of absolute neutrality.

W. E. BARNES IS ACQUITTED.

WRITES HIS OWN INSTRUCTIONS TO JURY TRYING HIS CASE.

The trial of William E. Barnes on a charge of grand larceny of which charge he was acquitted yesterday developed a queer anomaly when it was learned that the instructions given to the jury on behalf of the defendant had been written by himself upon his own rights in the case and at the same time he was asking the jury for an acquittal on the ground of insanity. Barnes years ago studied law. During the months he has spent in jail recently and the numerous trials and legal complications that have arisen over his cases he has given much study to his legal rights and like many other prisoners has been spending his time studying the code and brushing up his old knowledge of law. When the time came in the recent trial for giving the instructions to the jury, before they retired to consider their verdict and the District Attorney had submitted his instructions for the people, Barnes drew some closely written sheets from his pocket and handed them to his attorney and told him to give them to the judge. The attorney scanned them and, as they appeared to be all right, handed them to the judge. Barnes where he got them. The prisoner modestly admitted that he had dabbled a little in the study of the profession and particularly as to the rights of a man on trial for crime. Evidently the instructions were all right for he was acquitted.

UNHAPPY COUPLES GIVEN DIVORCE.

A decree of divorce was granted Mattie Kurth this morning by Judge Melvin from Charles J. Kurth on the grounds of desertion. She was also awarded $50 a month alimony. They were married in 1885 and she alleges she was deserted in 1902.

Helen M. Jordan was granted a separation from H. W. Jordan on the ground of cruelty today. They were married in 1901.

An action for divorce was begun today by Sarah M. Durbin against Rev. S. D. Durham. Sheriff John N. Bishop was appointed the guardian of the two children upon the petition of the mother until the final disposition of the case.

OVERSTREET REPORTS APPROPRIATION BILL.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Mr. Overstreet, chairman of the Committee on Postoffice and Postroads, reported the Postoffice appropriation bill to the House today. The House then went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the Indian Appropriation bill.

NEW YORK BANKS MAKE HIGH RECORDS.

NEW YORK, March 5.—All previous high records for loans, specie and deposits were wiped out by this week's bank statement. The grand total for loans is now close to a billion dollars, while deposits have reached the enormous sum of $1,044,000,000 and specie pays all previous figures with a total of $219,000,000. The week's loans increase is said to have been caused by railroad borrowing.

MURDERS WOMAN THEN KILLS HIMSELF.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 5.—Charles Cochran entered the home of T. H. Flynn, a contractor of Winchester, while the latter was absent last night and shot and killed Mrs. Flynn who was sick in bed. Cochran then killed himself. He had been in Flynn's employ until he was discharged recently. He had been drinking.

TOKIO ELECTION RETURNS.

OVER ONE HUNDRED NEW MEMBERS ELECTED TO PARLIAMENT.

TOKIO, March 5.—The final returns of the parliamentary elections show that over one hundred new members were elected. The large increase of the independent membership is regarded as a favorable sign. Of late years the Diet has largely been composed of politicians, and popular interest and confidence in it has increased. The Diet, in consequence has ceased to be the great representative body the constitution proposed. Political issues have caused bickering and frequent dissolutions, making the government partly an oligarchy instead of a constitutional administration. The war has revived interest in national affairs and the new Diet is regarded as an improvement on its immediate predecessor. Donations to the war bonds gifts to the war funds and contributions to the war charities have been exceedingly large. The subscription list for the issue of the first 100,000,000 yen of war bonds, which closes on March 10th, will be over-subscribed four times. The soldiers' relief society, which is being promoted by Counts Matsugata and Inouye reports subscriptions approaching one million yen. Donations totaling a quarter of a million yen already have been paid to the war fund. Hundreds of applications have been made for permission to contribute to the coming military and navy relief funds, the amounts offered making a total of 250,000 yen. The ladies patriotic society, largely composed of housewives and the wives of nobles, is raising a fund in aid of the Red Cross. The latter society already possesses a large fund and an extended organization in Japan.

O'DELL DOES NOT WANT TO BE CHAIRMAN.

He Will Not Call on Roosevelt to Discuss National Issues.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Tating that he was suffering from a fever, cold and sore throat, Governor B. O. Odell today abandoned his proposed trip to Washington to consult with President Roosevelt, and returned to Albany, at the same time positively putting himself out of the for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. Nothing has been settled yet, he said, as to the chairmanship and the matter is still under consideration. In mentioning the adjournment for the present of the Washington trip, Governor Odell also made an emphatic declaration on the subject of his leadership in this State, stating that "there is nothing in the affairs of the party in this State that I cannot settle myself without assistance. If I wish, and the President is not apt to call on me to settle the affairs of the nation, I shall not go to Washington for some time, as I have several engagements up the State, and there is nothing I wish to see the President about that is urgent and that will not keep."

Authorizing the President to extend an invitation to the international Congress of Hygiene to meet at Washington in 1909. Mr. Cullum presented the report of the Conference Committee on Legislation, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill and it was agreed to. STANDARD OIL COMPANY TO BUILD IMMENSE REFINERY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 5.—The Standard Oil Company, it is said, is to build the largest oil refinery in the world in the Sugar Creek valley, on the Missouri river, ten miles south of the business center of Kansas City, where 120 acres of land have already been purchased. Surveys are now at work on the site, and it is predicted that the plant will be running by October next. There is to be an oil plant, refining works, sawing works and the various other facilities for the manufacture of the products of the crude oil. The plant will, it is said, employ 1500 men. A pipe line that will bring oil nearly 120 miles from Neosho, Kansas, is to be built.

KNOX WANTS TO INTERVENE.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 5.—The Attorney-General received notice today that Attorney-General Knox had filed a petition in the United States Supreme Court moving for leave to intervene on March 14th in the Arkansas river between Kansas and Colorado. The petition sets forth that the contention of neither Kansas or Colorado is correct, and that establishment of either State's claim of priority to the use of the waters would defeat the object and intent of the reclamation act recently passed by Congress.

SHOOT AND SLASH OVER WOMAN.

ONE MAN KILLED AND MURDERER IS HORRIBLY CUT AND GASHED.

WINTERSET, Ia., March 5.—After a terrible fight, in which pistols and knives were freely used, John Thornborough, a young married man living near here, shot and killed Fred Peacock and perhaps fatally wounded Peacock's father, a man of 60 years. Thornborough is terribly gashed about the head, but will recover. The fatal fight grew out of an effort on the part of Thornborough to induce his wife, from whom he is separated to leave the Peacock home and accompany him.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 5.—Today the Susquehanna river registered 32 feet above low water mark and was still rising. There is no change in the conditions between this city and Columbia. At Middletown the lowlands are submerged and the electric light plant is ruined. The town was without lights last night, and many families have been compelled to leave their homes. Fitzgerald Murphy and Parsifal Gossip About Prize Ball Tossers

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The petical pot is beginning to sizzle.

The Democrats and the Republicans are perfecting their plans for the action of delegates to the national conventions, for it has been decided to hold primaries. Already the Republicans have come to an understanding, so the threatened war between the Abo Rner forces and the other wing of the party will not come off.

The Democrats, however, promise all sorts of excitement and if the wise man are to be believed, Donnybrook fair in its palmy days was a tame affair compared to the predicted battle of the Bourbons.

Just what the outcome will be no man may say, but it is safe to figure on a bunch of real surprises.

The slim attendance at the fight last Monday night between Young Corbett and Dave Sullivan has made the champion savage and wrathful. When he agreed to fight Britt before the Yosemite Club he held out for "extra percentage" of the receipts on the ground that he is the real drawing card of the fight in which he participates.

Because Manager Coffroth refused to allow him this "extra percentage" the match was declared off so far as the Yosemite Club was concerned. Later Coffroth signed Corbett and Dave Sullivan. The latter was guaranteed $2500, win, lose or draw. He got his guarantee which sum was greatly in excess of the bank roll handed the champion. Hence the anger of Corbett.

The outcome proved that Coffroth was right when he told Corbett that Britt would be the real drawing card in the event of the entering the ring.

and I venture to say the attendance at the rooting of the twain on March 31st will prove this statement.

Young Corbett and Britt will draw about a $20,000 house. The champion couldn't draw $3000 by meeting anyone else. Morris Levy will conduct the Corbett-Britt go.

I don't like the Jeffries-Munroe card. Jeff ought to whip the big miler in six rounds. No man on earth has a chance with Jeffries when he is in fighting trim.

Along the line the most exciting personality of the week is Fitzgerald Murphy. In one lean little frame he has the wit of many big Irishmen, and one might say of him, as Wilton Lackaye once said of Maurice Barrymore: "He talked beneath the stars."

And he slept beneath the sun; He lived a life of going-to-do, And died with nothing done."

But for Mr. Murphy's surprising industry. Thirty-five years of age he has already written a score of plays, not to mention the rewriting of Richard Wagner's "Parsifal," which soon will be divulged at the Alcazar.

But it is as a talker that Murphy shines. Meet him in any downtown cafe and he is good till dawn. If you don't like English he will talk to you with equal facility in Gaelic. He was a protegee of John Boyle O'Reilly, and like that unconventional Irishman, "would rather live in Bohemia than in any other land."

Murphy is an Irish patriot of the sort that would like to see England at the bottom of the sea. His countryman, William Butler Yeats, he regards as a great poet, but an ineffectual patriot. Only the Chinese, says Murphy, live on the memory of the dead. He would be up and doing something in the bold bright year of 1904. Hear his talk and you would expect to find dynamite in his waistcoat pocket. But, certainly there is radium in his tongue, and he is not so Irish as not to relish the telling of a good Irish story. His yarns are brief and snappy, and run like this one:

"Poor Pat's dead." "Holy Gawd!" "Yes, he died of gangrene."

"Well, thank Gawd for the color." Murphy expects to make a big thing out of his dramatic version of "Parsifal." The Alcazar people will send it on the road after the run in the O'Farrell-street theater, and he is just disposing of the Australian rights to a big manager in the land of the kangaroo, who is at present in San Francisco.

On the slightest provocation he will prove to you that Parsifal was an Irishman. He has already convinced Fred Delancey that Richard Wagner was a Penian.

Giving expert testimony on Irishmen, Ashton Stevens says that Fitzgerald Murphy is the noblest four-o'clock-in-the-morning company since the Weberfeldians left town. Stevens is trying to get up a talking-fest between his find and John McNaught, the Dimosthenes of Journalism.

A sextette, composed of a trio in and a trio out of the social set, engaged in a quartet of pitched battles ranging over the heart of the tenderloin a few night ago. The principals were Wilson Mizner, one of the many Mizners; a young New York chappie named Kane, Gus Hartman, an undersized gambler, with a weakness for wine, women and song, and others.

Morgan's cafe, a rendezvous of the free and easy of both sexes; the Oyster Loaf, an eating place, patronized by these of the night world; the Oriental cafe, sometimes called the "Oh Lady's Home," on Powell street, and the entrance to the Columbia Theater were the four fields of action.

It was in Morgan's cafe and he sang was "Show the White of Yo' Eye, Oh, Babe!" Mr. Mizner and Mr. Kane showed the white of their eyes to a shoubrette who was sharing a little of wine with Hartman and his party. Angry words followed. Then Wilson Mizner hurled a match safe. Chairs began to sail through the air and the crash of breaking glasses furnished a lively accompaniment to the screams of the women.

Finally, all hands disappeared. Later, they met in the Oyster Loaf. There the second battle was refereed by Tim McGrath.

The third meeting occurred in the Oriental cafe. Finally, the bunch collided for the fourth and last time on Powell street, near Eddy. There was the final encounter. The Mizner party won.

I would never have mentioned the event if the efforts to keep it secret had not been so successful.

Tiring of sending "Scrappy" Smith advance money and transportation and then hearing that "mother is ill and I cannot come" with a P. S., that the funds would be returned "as soon as possible," and also of having players threatening to go to some other part of the country "unless you do this offer and raise it a few," Coast League managers confabbed with delegates from the National Association of Baseball Leagues and became members of that organization, thus getting for themselves sole rights to the stars of their teams and protection from unscrupulous men who had grown into the habit of raising a hundred whenever they were short by wiring a Coast

League angel to send "something in advance and railroad tickets for self and wife."

Just as it's a long lane without a bend it's a long and monotonous tale that hasn't a "but."

The but in this case has turned out to be a matter of two husky lads who can field and throw with the best of 'em and who never walloped the ball for less than 290 in their lives. One of the crackjacks concerned is Frank Dillon of James Morley's Los Angeles champions. The other is a young man who was weaned and raised on em-brookio. He is Louis Castro, nephew of the President of Venezuela. Castro learned the art to toss, catch and hit at Manhattan College and has worn the spangles for the Philadelphia National League team and for the Baltimore Club of the Eastern League. At this moment Mr. Dillon is superintending the training of the Los Angeles team at Los Angeles and Senor Castro is doing the same for the Portland players, who are getting ready for battles to come in the dry atmosphere at Bakersfield.

Edward Hanlon of the Brooklyn Nationals wants these men. He is a power in baseball, and says that if Dillon and Castro stay out West the Coast League will be thrown out of the National Association to again be at the mercy of persons whose word is only good for nothing.

Hanlon has friends in the Coast camp. President Bert says that Dillon and Castro must obey his order and go immediately to that dear Brooklyn, N. Y. Bert is backed in his stand by Harris of San Francisco, Ewing of Oakland, Cohen of Seattle and Mike Fisher. He is opposed by Morley of Los Angeles, who wants Dillon, and by Ely of Portland, who wants Castro. The two magnates who won't be coerced into line have delivered their ultimatum. It is:

Let them keep their "National Agreement." We want ball players.

This is the situation at present and the league schedule reads that the first encounter of the campaign will happen on March 24th, a little over two weeks from date.

Hanlon is doing nothing. He has Bert's word that all will be well and the satisfaction of knowing that two players he feels sure he will get are already warming up, and not at his expense, for the fights that are to be fought in the National League.

The explosion will come when the teams Dillon and Castro are with trot out on the field for the opening day games. Bert says it will be an easy matter to give the money back to the fans. So, unless Morley and Ely drop a sponge into the arena or Bert and the four managers who are with him surrender, the '04 baseball season on the Pacific Coast will practically be left at the post. THE KNAVE.

DESCRIPTION OF BULGARIA STANDS FIRST ATTACK.

RUSSIAN OFFICER DECLARES THAT THE JAPS MADE USE OF FALSE LIGHTS.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—A letter from an officer of the Russian cruiser Pallada, has been received here describing the first attack by the Japanese upon Port Arthur. The writer denies the story that the officers of the Russian fleet were ashore and confirms the statement that the Japanese made use of false lights. He asserts that at 11 o'clock at night a practice drill to repel a torpedo attack was executed and that toward midnight four Russian torpedo boats, which simulated the enemy, headed back toward Dalny, from which place they had come. The crews of the boats had retired, only the watch remaining on deck. The ships were in the outer harbor and the captain of the Pallada which vessel occupied the advance position, had descended from the bridge for a last look around before going below, when he perceived lights advancing. The ship's lights, which were in the first line, being shown were white above and red below those of the Russian warships when they enter the harbor. The captain of the Pallada supposed the approaching vessels were the Russian torpedo boats returning from Dalny and his suspicions were only aroused when upon drawing nearer they covered and uncovered their lights at irregular intervals. The signal tower signalled that the lights were not understood.

At this moment the Pallada's captain, through the thick night, made out the outlines of the torpedo boat destroyers, smokestacks in pairs, cradles. As the stacks of the Russian destroyers are in the fore and aft, the crews of the Russian ships were instantly called to quarters. In less than three minutes the Pallada's men were at their posts, orders were given that the guns be charged with grape and a fierce fire was opened on the on-coming Japanese. The battleships Camerovich and Retzky, which were in the first line, a short distance astern of the Pallada, also opened fire almost immediately.

A terrific explosion occurred under the hull of the Pallada, raising a torrent of water which submerged the cruiser's deck, but did not stop her firing or maneuvering, which now, however, were complicated by the measures taken to close a breach amidships, below the water line, made by the explosion of the torpedo.

Soon afterwards two other torpedoes exploded almost simultaneously, one under the bow of the Retzky and the other under the stern of the Camerovich. This double explosion ended the attack. The Japanese vessels retiring at full speed.

BULGARIA STANDS WITH JAPAN.

SO SAYS THE COMMISSIONER TO THE WORLD'S FAIR AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—"Although the people of Bulgaria are grateful to Russia for a service of a quarter of a century ago, the general sentiment concerning the present war in the Far East is in favor of Japan," said P. M. Mattheeff, the Bulgarian Commissioner-General to the World's Fair, who arrived here. Commissioner Mattheeff left Sofia about three weeks ago, and having been Minister in Turkey for many years, is well informed on subjects relating to the attitude of the people of the Balkans toward Russia.

"As a result of the Turkish-Russian war twenty-five years ago, Russia is now an independent government," he said. "It is true that we could never have overturned the rule of the Sultan, had it not been for the support of the Czar. Still Russia's attitude toward us since that time has been such that we have to fight continually against being absorbed."

The same feeling which causes Bulgaria to favor Russia causes them to sympathize with Japan, although the people of Bulgaria know the Czar is pursuing the same policy in the Orient that he is pursuing in the Balkans, and in any event it is evident that Russia is trying to absorb the territory of a weaker nation. Japanese victories are received exultantly in Sofia."

Smith, whereby he becomes owner of thirteen additional independent telephone exchanges in Texas. THE EARTHQUAKE STABBED IN HEART YET LIVES.

DETAILS SHOW THAT A LARGE AMOUNT OF DAMAGE WAS DONE.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Only one person was killed, but many walls fell and much damage was done by the earthquake which occurred Friday, says a despatch from Lima, Peru.

One of the structures seriously affected was the Cathedral. Its right tower was cracked, and much damage was done to statues and works of art. Scarcely a house in the city escaped damage.

Doors and windows were opened and re-shut by the tremors. Roofs were dislodged and pictures, mirrors and glassware in shops were destroyed. The balconies of a large part of the buildings in the city tumbled to the ground.

A despatch from Chorillos says that the earthquake was more destructive there than in Lima. It cracked the walls of churches and destroyed pictures, statues and crockery.

In Callao walls of numerous houses fell, while the docks and the iron bridge suffered seriously.

Traffic on the Central Railway was stopped by rocks falling on the track. The shock was felt everywhere in Peru.

STOCK MARKET IS VERY DULL.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Stock market dealings have fallen to a level of dullness unequalled since the summer of 1900. Contributing to this were the suspended Northern Securities decision, Paris settlement, heavy decline in January net earnings of railroads, war of freight rates, fears of a coming coal strike, doubt over the money outlook on account of possible foreign requirements growing out of the war and great corporation borrowings at home, and the drought in the southwest which wheat belt. These things have not, however, prevented a slow hardening of prices, almost perceptible in extent and to an insignificant volume of dealings.

MAY BE MURDER. NEW YORK, March 5.—Charles F. Miller, a manufacturer of enamelled letters, was found dead with a bullet through his head early today in an apartment at 345 First Eighth-street. In the same room lay a woman who has not been identified. She also had been shot in the head, but was still alive. Miller was about 45 years old and said to be a man of some means. The woman was about 35 years old. She was unconscious when taken to a hospital and the police have not yet learned the facts surrounding the shooting.

TAFT IS DINED BY THE GRADUATES OF YALE COLLEGE.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Secretary of War William H. Taft has been entertained at a dinner and reception at the Yale Club here. About fifty men were there, including several members of the secretary's class, '78. No speeches were made and at the dinner's close Judge Taft was escorted to the library, where he shook hands with several hundred fellow graduates.

Otto T. Bannard of the class of '76 in introducing the Secretary of War, said:

"I have the pleasure of presenting the Secretary of War, William H. Taft, of the class of '78, who was Judge Taft, then Governor Taft, is now Secretary Taft, and President Taft that is to be. To many of us he is, in addition to all that, just plain Bill Taft."

Mr. Bannard's sally was greeted with tremendous cheering and the secretary was compelled to make a brief speech. He referred exclusively to the Philippine Islands, saying:

"We are not there to treat the Philippines as a conquered people. Many of the seven million Filipinos are Christians. Their religious ideals, however crude they may be, are essentially Christian in character and in this respect they differ from all the other yellow races."

"The natives are learning English rapidly and appreciate the value to them of their American teachers. It is a new experience for them. The Spaniards objected to their learning Spanish even."

"I want to make a strong plea for an open market. It will be better for them and for us. Even if it does not benefit us, we owe it to them. I hope we shall give them a great many tariff concessions. I want Yale men to take an interest in the Philippines and give some of their best thought toward solving the problems incidental to our new possessions."

NEW YORK, March 5.—Employees of the Southern and Western Railways have failed to join in the general strike of the railroad men, cables the Buenos Ayres, Argentine, correspondent of the Herald. The manager of the Central and Rosario roads has had a long conference with the Minister of Public Works. The latter also received a delegation of strikers, to whom he offered the mediation of the Government.

JAPAN READY TO BUILD ROAD. NEW YORK, March 5.—Japan is ready to start the construction of the Seoul-Wiju Railway at once, according to a Herald dispatch from Seoul. Fifteen miles of grading already has been done by the Korean Government under French engineers, but no rails, locomotives or cars have been purchased yet.

The proposed arrangement may possibly create an issue between the Korean and French Governments, as a concession was originally granted in 1896 to French citizens, who, failing to arrange the financing of the road, allowed the concession to lapse in 1899. Under the agreement the railway was to be built Securing a long plank the thief made a gangway from the wharf to the steamer and then broke into the room where the members of the crew lay sleeping. It is believed that the men that chloroformed must have been used on them so completely that the robber was able to work.

George McCarthy had $47 hidden in a purse under his pillow and this was taken as well as $21 which Joe Davine had in his trousers pocket. Frank Daly, another member of the crew, lost $18. The thief even went so far as to take the knives and tobacco of the men.

It is the little niceties of cooking and serving that mark the difference between mere eating and an appetizing meal. So plain a course as cold steak with mashed potato may be tempting or the reverse if fried in grease that still surrounds it and if relish in the offering. If, instead, the steaks are drained on kitchen paper and arranged on a platter around a mound of mashed potato beaten light, little lemon basket holding parsley set out to the side, with alternate slices of sliced red boiled beets, quite a different and on appetite and digestion is produced.

JONES AVENUE IN ELMHURST NEEDS GRADING.

ELMHURST, March 5.—A regular meeting was held Thursday night by the Elmhurst Improvement Club in the office of the Elmhurst Lumber Company. J. J. O'Toole presided over the meeting. The general future of Elmhurst was discussed and the reality prospects were considered in detail by the organization.

In common phrasing, real estate is lively in Elmhurst. In reviewing existing conditions, it was thought by the club that the demand for both improved and unimproved, during the past year, has been better than at any time during the history of this place, and a stimulus to the matter to the supervisors.

It was reported that during the summer months of 1903 there was not a vacant house in Elmhurst; that a conservative estimate shows that not less than one hundred people were turned away in account of a lack of rental properties.

LAUREL CLUB LOWERS FEE.

At a recent meeting of the Laurel Club of this place the club discussed ways and means for increasing the revenue of the organization. At present the receipts are barely equal to the expenses and more members or higher dues are necessary.

The election of a director to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. A. Garrison was deferred to next meeting.

KEEP YOUR BLOOD CLEAN

The Wake of the Forty-Niner

Written for the Tribune by ADELAIDE SELL BAKER

Tom Richardson, miner, raised his pick for a final decisive blow. Its sharp point struck deep into the side of the drift, sending great masses of dislodged rock and earth perilously near his feet. As the last heavy fragment broke loose and scattered, a look of grim satisfaction succeeded the determined lines which had furrowed his face.

"If this doesn't show 'color,' I give it up," exclaimed he, aloud.

From a jutting rock he took the sputtering candle, and made a critical survey of his work. Up and down, to left, to right, passed the tallow cylinder. Richardson's eyes eagerly following the light cast by its puny wick.

Not a trace of gold! Even the long following vein had "petered" out and completely vanished. Richardson groaned. Then, stooping, gave attention to the littered earth about. Gravely, anxiously and long he hunted for some evidence of the sought-for treasure.

"Nothing," muttered he, despondently, "absolutely nothing!"

The last bit of earth dropped from between his fingers. He leaned heavily back against a supporting timber. Hope like a mask fell from him, and despair possessed the soul of the man. Tears forced their way over cheeks long strange to a miner's edge.

The first passionate outbreak passed, Richardson found himself stretched face forward on the damp earth, his body still quivering with the frenzy which had mastered him.

He rose, mechanically, and looked about in the wavering shadows, whose somber hints reflected in his eyes. A chance draught of cool air flicked the candle's flame obliquely, showing the flick on the forehead of the man. The sight maddened him. Again he seized it, and threw it far with the energy of disappointment.

"Curse this damned hole!" exclaimed he, savagely, jamming his clay-spattered hat well over his forehead. Turning to a protruding rock, he took his dilapidated coat from its improvised hanger, and cautiously climbed the shaky ladder which led to above ground.

He had worked late, buoyed by hopes unrealized. When he emerged from the "Edith," named for her who had kept faith with him through three hopeful years of unrewarded labor, the sun was already lost to view, although the hills were still glowing with a fast departing splendor.

Near by stood his cabin, its entrance guarded by a veteran mountaineer oak, whose gnarled and bulky growth threatened to overthrow the rudely fitted foundations.

Quickly crossing the intervening space, Richardson entered. An empty ladder confronted him—no flour—no bacon—no beans—and, worst of all, no money. The crisis had come.

"Tonight ends it!" exclaimed he, faced by these incriminating evidences of failure.

Almslessly, like a man who has lost the fight, he passed from object to object in the room till he stood before the companion of his travels from the East—an old hair trunk. Opening it, he uncovered a picture, and gazed long and earnestly at the reflected features, while memory traced the golden hair, the softly rounded cheeks, and the kindly eyes of the absent Edith.

Kissing this reminder of a life apart, he placed the fair token in his waistcoat pocket; laboriously, he fastened his coat by its solitary button, hanging limply from frayed threads; and, with a sigh and one long look, turned from the cabin's door, about him, the air of a man who has forever closed a life chapter.

His way to town led for a good mile over a narrow trail. On either side lay the hills, seamed and scarred with gaping, open wounds, left by the miner's pick and shovel. Tall pines, sprawling buckeyes, magnificent oaks and thick underbrush were all about; a deserted mill-wheel, sections of whose staves were going to decay, marked where the trail forked into the main road.

In the distance, on a tiny plateau, midway between Richardson and his destination, clustered half a dozen small, low-roofed houses, distinctly visible in the fast-gathering twilight. One solitary figure was evidenced as he neared the settlement. He did not perceive her as he approached, and would have gone by, had not a voice with foreign intonation called softly: "Good evening, Senor Richardson."

He raised his lids, startled at the unexpected greeting. Before him, in the low doorway of a tiny house, slightly apart from its fellows, stood a woman, in whose eyes lurked a suggestion of the larger knowledge.

"Good evening, Loreto," replied he, vaguely comprehending the slender outlines of her figure, gowned a muslin, whose folds fell in straight lines to her feet.

"It is lonesome this evening," continued she, with a shake of her head, which set in motion the broad hoops of gold depending from her ears.

The sight held him. He leaned forward, half abstractedly observing the heavy rings, rich with the tracery so dear to her Southern blood.

"You, too, Loreto, do you feel lonely?" replied he, slowly. "I would have thought—"

"Madre de Dios!" interrupted she. "Sometimes—very often, I lonesome." She shrugged her graceful shoulders as though to ward off unpleasant memories. Suddenly, smiling with the touch of sadness given to all who have eaten of the tree, she continued, and the witchery of her tongue appealed irresistibly to the hungry heart of the man.

"You lonesome, Senor Richardson? I all alone, too. Why you not stop this evening with Loreto? It near supper time now. I make coffee—such good coffee—ah!—and the hot tamales, they on the stove now!"

For a moment, Tom Richardson hesitated. Then, the pungent odor of coffee came to his nostrils through the open door, and the thought of the hot tamales tormented his hungry stomach into crying for its own. He looked toward the distant town, nestled in the gully below; once more he inhaled a breath of the temptation for which Esau sold his birthright; on a more his gaze rested on the woman, and she looked good to his sight.

"I have invite you; come!" smilingly.

"What matter?" reflected he fastening his eyes on the heavy braids of her ebony hair, confined by a single high-backed comb of tortoise shell. "It will be only for an hour."

"Come," urged she again, taking a backward step toward the interior. Silently, the man followed, impelled by the double reason of her lustrous eyes, and the cravings of a keen appetite.

At dawn the next day, Richardson returned to his mine, encouraged by the hopeful words of Loreto. Shortly after that evening when they first broke bread together, the Edith began to show "pay dirt." At first gold was scarce, but soon the vein reappeared, and Richardson was able to pan out enough "dust" to supply the simple wants of Loreto. At night, he no longer stopped at his little cabin to prepare supper, but took his way down the trail to Loreto, who invariably stood waiting at the door, shading her eyes to better catch a glimpse of him in the distance. Loreto, who, when she saw him, always waved her hand in glad encouragement, and then disappeared into the little home, hat she might not keep him waiting for the hot coffee.

There came a time when Loreto was never alone. On her arm, as she stood in the doorway, lay a little helpless bundle, all frills and Spanish work. Time passed swiftly on. The little bundle grew to more dignified estate, and others came to take its place, until, when nightly he quitted his claim, Richardson found himself eagerly scanning the horizon for a sight of three little toddlers making their way toward the trail.

A boy, curiously like himself, yet with the big brown eyes of the mother; or, on either side a girl, the youngest gravely uncertain in her gait. At sight of them, hand in hand, Richardson always sounded a loud halloo, which rang echoing over the stillness. Then, three pairs of brown hands would gesticulate a welcome, and three pairs of chubby legs would break into a run toward the rattling mill-wheel.

The day the baby was two years old, Richardson struck the big pocket. He called the old hair trunk once more into service on his trip to the San Francisco Mint, where the lousy rocks were to be returned to him in the shape of golden eagles.

Seven years were passed since he had left the old home in the East, and, in the light of the new order which had come over him, old associations had faded and old ties weakened.

The journey to San Francisco aroused sleeping memories with a keenness not to be denied, and Richardson found himself fighting a fierce battle of repentance and temptation, brought about by a visit to a fashionable tailor, and a chance meeting with Lester Stephens, an old college chum, who recognized him the minute he set foot in the hotel dining-room, and who bore down upon him with eager questionings and information for which Richardson longed for the little brown hands at the cabin had long since made writing home an impossibility.

He found himself glowing with interest as Stephens recounted happenings after happening, and the heart of him grew chill when, at parting, Stephens, a flush rising to his cheeks, said hesitatingly:

"There is some one waiting back in the old home, you know!"

Waiting! So Edith was waiting. Tom Richardson never knew what he replied, nor how he reached his room, but after recollections called very distinctly to mind a picture of himself standing before the pier glass, calling the reflected image of the man of thirty-five, unheard of and uncompensated epithets. Exhausting his denunciatory powers, he turned once more to the old hair trunk, and from a tiny recess in the top, extracted the well-remembered picture.

The little God waxed the old love flame till it shone brighter and brighter. Visions of a beautiful blonde woman by his side, whom he called by the tender name of "wife"—happiness, power, greatness and the wealth that was now his, rose before him. Stephens was going to sail on the steamer Ocean Queen. She would leave port tomorrow. A lifetime lay stretched before him. He, too, would go—he would.

Turning, his gaze encountered a toy dog, lying uppermost in the open trunk, which only yesterday he had filled with baubles for Loreto and the babies. A moan escaped his lips, and memories of childish voices and tiny brown hands rose to confront him; half tauntingly, another face grew in his vision; a woman's, with lustrous eyes of brown, and hair of ebony hue.

The struggle between desire and a resurrected conscience lasted until daybreak, when a chastened man took a cab to the ferry, leaving a hastily scribbled farewell to Lester Stephens. When the El Capitan was opposite

Goat Island, Richardson drew from his pocket a tiny packet, weighted with one of his choicest specimens from the mine. Solemnly he dropped it into the bay of San Francisco, and the fair Edith became to him a tender memory, unfolded only when lights were dim and sounds hushed.

Three weeks later, after the bans had been duly published, a group stood before the good priest of the mountain parish, and the baby Regina, felt very important while the holy father pronounced words of which she could not guess the import. But Tom Richardson had sealed his fate.

Smart Shirt Waists for EARLY SPRING

THE TAILORED SILK SPRING MODEL

To Wear in Street or House, Morning or Evening, Individual Waists are Being Designed that Become the Wearer.

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT,
MIRIAM SPIER.

There are all sorts of predilections in the air for the styles to be seen during the coming seasons, but all of them point to a continuation of the smart and dainty waists. That the shirtwaist will be back in all its glory is one of these prophecies, and the time for the arrival of new spring models is now at hand.

When we stop and think how absolutely necessary a variety of this particular garment is to every woman's wardrobe, we would devote a little more of our time in noting the exceptional and strikingly handsome effects in numbers of the new and stylish designs.

Certainly the fact that the two-piece tailored suit is so well thought of today by women in general, and that it is largely adopted, as it ever was, convinces us the more that there is a stronger demand for shirtwaists, and this unmistakable favor and the wide range, both in design and quality, always obtainable, makes its popularity a surety, and no plausible reason is left for its dismissal.

The styles for the coming spring season are diverse and exceedingly attractive, and are built on very broad lines, giving a graceful outline in figure to the slender woman, and the necessary breadth of the shoulders essential for the stouter sister. "This is a positive rule that the shoulder seam is as long as possible, without being exaggerated or ultra. The sleeves of the distinct tailored waists, as quoted by the leading authority, are noticeably smaller than those of the last season; in fact, the full puff below the elbow is conspicuously absent, and the narrowness is completed by the manly cuffs and links. Of course, the dress waist is trimmed with lace and hand work in great abundance, and necessarily the sleeves are fairly and trimly decorated.

So many of the new and exquisite fabrics are being displayed for the coming spring season that one wonders when the later months have in store the later months have in store in novelties and innovations. Vestings of a much finer and heavier weight weave are playing an important part in the display, and linen will be the correct thing for smart waists, the effects continuing to increase in charm. The advent of shirtwaists of these particular materials is a boon for the wearer, for a decrease in the size of the wrist puff, as well as in the depth of the blouse in front.

Appropos of the linen waists, a most effective result is obtained by rows of black stitching on the white ground, and small plaits or broad tucks with the lines stitched in black in artistic patterns will be decidedly popular. A very neat belt of the handsome pearl buttons used on the box plait in front and corresponding small ones for the cuffs of the sleeves. Harmonizing as a finishing touch is a very neat belt of white leather. With a waist of this description the severest kind of a stock would be advisable, or the white linen collar and small bow of either black or a solid colored silk is fitting.

Another design which is shown in the "Foraythe" waist and is sure to find many admirers is pictured in a most exquisite shade of gray pompadour silk, unusual in the absence of any trimming, still most charming in the elaborate pattern of the material itself, all in the same beautiful tint of the soft gray. The only idea of trimming introduced is the delicate stock of Irish point crochet lace, interwoven with the most delicate pastel shades. Then, another idea of the tailored waist, which is decidedly unique though severe, may be seen in the chevrons and madras, which contain the most striking and truly manly effects. For a slender girl with a well-developed figure the single-breasted chevron with two breast pockets is a becoming model. This vast departure in design, although severe, is really more striking than the usual simplicity and perfect fit than any of the more trimmed waists now worn.

Of stocks and belts the fashionable woman cannot possess too many, and on account of the variety it is comparatively easy to change pretty and becoming styles. The charm of the washable stock and the new "Nouveau" collar and cuffs bands will not readily give way to the more elaborate effects in silk, for half the attraction of neckwear is its inconspicuousness. Quite the latest novelty in the collar and cuffs bands are those made of the finest linen, with a row of the finest handwork in Mexican plaiting to effect a most charming finish. The bands must cover the collar and cuffs of the waist entirely and be snugly about them, fastened by tiny gold infants' pins. This particular style is strikingly becoming to the majority of faces, the very broad or the usual hemstitching on both the collar and cuffs, to add a necessary finish, the collar is topped with a neat little turnover of lawn work.

Handwork is more in evidence than ever in the fashionable wardrobe. Never was there more embroidery, lace, filling in of every description, and, to be perfectly approved, each waist must be treated differently, even if the same trimming is employed. Among the new importations of dress fabrics, the dainty mouline, the Panama pastille, the fluted flannel and dentelle boure. Just as popular, though, are the silky fabrics used before, such as foulards, taffetas, crepe de chinos, lousines and peau de ermine.

At an afternoon affair given very recently by one of our elite some extremely good styles were displayed in the odd dress waists that were worn. Although it has been asserted that waist and contrasting skirt are appropriate only for morning wear or for shopping, and that it is a breach of good manners to wear them at any other time of the day or evening, you must agree there are many of elaborate odd bodices worn at many social functions—yes, even to the theater—and they seem to be a necessary adjunct to every woman's wardrobe, without an exception.

One design that was exceptionally noticeable was that of a stout figure was a new "Gelsa" waist of fine silk of filmy texture elaborately embroidered with the most delicate shades of the pastel colorings, yoke, focused by tiny plaits, and the broad lines over the shoulders, and the sleeves has a soft, full puff below the elbow which is gathered into the embroidered cuff. The new neck ruche is used on all the dressy spring models.

For those indoor moments when an entire change of costume is not desired, there are ravishing odd bodices designed from French models and made to be worn with any skirt which goes well with them. A very long-shouldered effect and an extreme picturesqueness of the sleeve are prominent features of all the newest bodices displayed by the pretty quaintness that distinguishes all of the best Parisian things. A delightful little crepe of palest blue worn at an afternoon tea was deliciously presuming, for though made of the finest material, the fullness was acquired by shirtings, which brought out the desired and necessary lines. From a deep yoke of the finest Irish crocheted lace there was joined the body of the waist which was headed by several rows of shirring extending into the top of the sleeves. The fullness of the sleeves fell gracefully into the puff below the elbow and then was gathered into the deep lace cuff. The neck and cuffs are also finished with a delicate ruche.

Modelers predict that the in vogue high collar will soon be a thing of the past. If so, the summer girl can ditch off the neck of her gown with small cameo buttons or appropriate necklaces.

In conclusion, just a few valuable hints regarding the endless variety of new and attractive waists in the incoming novelties. In this specialty, both in leather and in fabric, one would imagine, from observation, that the vast variety to select from is certainly complete. The use of fabric belts will be as great as ever, while it is equally true that leather belts will be in greater favor than formerly. There is no particular model that is dominant; in fact, there never was a season when greater style latitude prevailed in this necessary accessory than for this coming spring and summer.

The most pronounced belt tendency is toward greater width at the back. Then, too, there are some that are wide both at back and front, others that are wide at the front and narrow at the back and a few that have their width at the sides, tapering toward the back and front. Strikingly handsome is the one inch-cable elastic belt. One particular design was ornamented with colorful gold back piece and buckle to match. In belt buckles and sets the variety is infinite and the cut steel will figure largely in the ensuing demand.

"Gelsa" Waist of Wide India Silk.

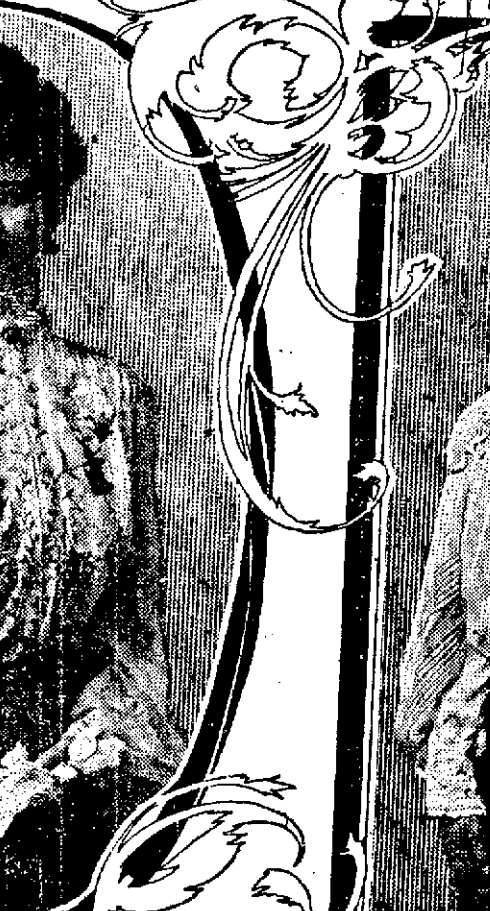

This new spring model shows an elaborate design in pretty shaded silk embroidery. The fullness of the blouse is acquired by clusters of tucks which form a short yoke. The floral pattern quite covering the entire front collar and cuffs is of the palest pastel shades of wild rose, pink and soft foliage tints. The silk being of a sheer, filmy nature necessitates a rather full puff below the elbow, which gathers gracefully into the embroidered cuff. The new neck ruche is used on all the spring models of a dressy nature.

Novelties in Furniture.

Many little novelties this season will add to the decoration and beautifying of the home or of the "den." Following out in the main the conventional lines, one can produce startling peculiarities in arrangement. There are all sorts of odds and ends that are no only decorative, but add vastly to one's convenience, and in the city especially one has to look to this point.

After all, nothing is quite so artistic as the old mission furniture, and while the style is not new, in essence, there are many changes and additions each year to which this particular furniture lends itself very kindly, with results which are usually good either on a large outlay of cash or a very modest one.

However, as the mission style is too massive for many uses, according to many people's ideas, some enterprising manufacturers are making, at a much lower price, some very good things in lighter weight of wood, following very closely along mission lines.

A beautiful, small desk which admirably carries out this semi-mission idea is severely plain in design and has as nearly as possible the natural dull wood finish. It has no decoration at all, and the drawer knobs are little square wooden blocks.

A tea table which is an exhibition in one of the exclusive shows introduced a new idea whose practical worth will insure its popularity when it is known. The table itself is not unlike many other tea tables, but the designer informed me that he had spent much time and thought to bring out a satisfactory tea table. Wood is invariably affected by the heat; so this particular table has a metal support in one corner, the top of the table being flush with the top of the support.

A table top could be made entirely of this in an appropriate design.

There is a new furniture made from the Mission style, a product of the Pacific Islands, that has evidently come to stay, for aside from its beauty, it is very durable. It furnishes so completely and handsomely that the old prejudice that fibre furniture is only for the summer cottage is laid aside altogether. This fibre is beautifully braided and woven; the colors are good and lasting as well, as the fibre is put through a process which renders the color permanent, so there is no outside varnishing or veneering. If this style of furniture had no other attraction, its cleanliness would commend it, as it cannot hold dust and germs.

This "Paraythe" waist of a pale grey pompadour silk is attractive in its simplicity. Of unusual design, the entire absence of trimming is replaced by the elaborate design of the material, all in the same soft tint of silver grey. The fastening is acquired by a narrow box plait, with the regulation button and buttonhole. A modest stock collar of a dainty design of Irish point crocheted lace flowers outlined in the palest pastel shades. The sleeves are close fitted at the top, broadening into a large puff when reaching the elbow, the fullness artistically gathered into the deep lace cuff. The neck and cuffs are also finished with a delicate ruche.

Modelers predict that the in vogue high collar will soon be a thing of the past. If so, the summer girl can ditch off the neck of her gown with small cameo buttons or appropriate necklaces.

OCYROLIE'S GOOD KELLEY HAS A FINISH. LIVELY TIME.

W. DALY PULLS FAVORITE IN BY A NOSE OVER RIESCA. MILLETT AND MARENO GIVE HIM SOME LIVELY WORK.

The track may have been called slow at Emeryville yesterday. Average crowd in the first race, the fifty not away well but soon strung out, closing up again at the turn. W. Daly on Ocyrolie came near losing the race but pulled the favorite in by a nose over Riesca. The finish was an exciting one. (Salto was third, Virginia, Silente, Orso, Rose W. and Cottal also ran. The scratches were Forest Fire, Miss May, Rowdell, Dury Miller, Hogarth, Young Pepper, Zenoniah, and Emil. Ocyrolie won the five and a half furlongs in 1:11.

Real made the second race of three and a half furlongs a good one on Gloomy Gus, and won driving. The first three came in neck to neck. Light of Day, with W. Daly up, was a close second, and Escobedo third. The time was 1:44. Anita Knight was off late at the start and finished a poor last. Caliente was an uninteresting fifth. Steel Wire ran fourth. Light of Day had the lead into the home stretch but couldn't land the race. Holbrook on Escobedo ran all over the field.

The third race of seven furlongs was taken by Planer in 1:31. At the start the field got away fairly well hunched with Planer in the lead. Planer dropped back but pulled up into the home stretch and furnished a neck to neck finish with Marville. Benish was a bad one and got a fourth. Deeny was third, Constellation, who finished fifth, was a gasser and looked funny not to win. Flyer was sixth. Rim Rock seventh and Watkins Overton last.

Another neck to neck finish was given in the fourth race of one mile and a furlong. Nellie Bawn started in to do a little pacing but was humped at the turn by Expendable, who set the pace into the home stretch and won a good race in 1:57. File D'Or was second and Elmer L. was third. Constellation, Flyer, Rim Rock and Watkins Overton also ran.

The fifth race was for six furlongs and was taken by Sad Sam in 1:25. It was an interesting finish between Constellation and Sad Sam. They were lapped from the half. The finish, Sad Sam won by a head from Constellation. Constellation ran third, Olympia and Stillho also ran.

Steeley J. Martin brought Keynote home a winner easily in the last race of one mile and a sixteenth and finished six lengths ahead of Udon. The scratches were Constellation and Sad Sam. Constellation also ran. Martin and Joe John were scratched.

WATERHOUSE CUP TODAY.

The Waterhouse cup, at two and one-quarter miles, with a value of about $4000, is the feature of a good card at Oakland today. Next to the Thornton stakes at four miles, this is the longest distance event run in the West, and much interest is manifested in it.

Among the candidates are some of the best performers here. The race has a very open appearance and should result in a good contest. It will serve to give a line on the Thornton, as most of those entered today are eligible for that stake.

As is the custom, the Thornton stakes were reopened yesterday for additional entries. Our Bessie and Keynote were named.

Under this management there will be two weeks of continuous trotting in Greater New York next summer, with the first meeting at the Empire track beginning on Monday, August 1st, and the second at the Coney Island course, beginning one week later. Each meeting six stake races worth $24,000 are to be opened next week, entries closing on April 4th.

REDFERN RULED BROKE SHOULDER FAVOR AMATEUR SPORTS. BUT WON.

REFUSES TO OBEY JUDGES AND GETS HIS WALKING PAPERS. HARRY TENNEY TURNS OUT TO BE A NERVY FIGHTER.

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Jockey Arthur Redfern and his father have been ruled off the turf by the judges of the Los Angeles Jockey Club. Redfern was ordered to ride Laureate in the sixth race, and the father of his father, the boy flatly refused to accept the mount. It was then put in the form of a formal order by the judges and still the boy refused. His father went into the judges' stand and made quite a disturbance by his boisterous conduct, stating that his son would not ride Peller's horse. Then the judges took action and ruled both father and son off the turf. Rule 264 gives the judges power to rule off any jockey who will not accept a mount upon their order, and upon those grounds the ruling was based.

Redfern Sr. was the sole cause of the trouble as had blood between himself and Peller, the owner of Laureate, was the reason why he would not allow Arthur to ride the horse. It will be remembered that Redfern Sr. has been in trouble before. His bad temper brought him into conflict with the judges at New Orleans last season.

As to the extent of this ruling, all depends upon the reciprocal rulings between the Pacific Coast Jockey Club and the other big Eastern racing associations.

TOURNAMENT IS POSTPONED.
Rainy weather is playing havoc with the tennis tournament now in progress at the East Oakland courts. The tournament was to be continued today but the rain has interfered again.

The circles have narrowed down to the semi-finals with Dunlap, George Baker, Varrel, Murdock, Clio and Ambrose to play. The drawings have been made so Dunlap will play the winner of the Varrel-Baker match and Murdock winner of the Odis Ambrose set. Murdock will have no difficulty in disposing of his opponent, but a pretty match may be expected when Dunlap meets his opponent. Varrel and Baker will have a struggle for victory.

A consolation singles tournament for all defeated players will be started tomorrow morning. The drawing will be made this afternoon.

Varrel and McGavin should win the doubles. The two formidable teams are the Murdock brothers and Griffin and Gardner. Tony Murdock will not be of much assistance to his brother while Griffin and Gardner are somewhat outclassed by McGavin and Varrel.

The Oakland High School held their try-outs yesterday on the University of California grounds. The track was in a very soggy condition and fair time only was made. Keys, a new man in the mile run, showed some ability by winning handsily. Rice is running in good form and his time of 4:05 in the hundred was good. Hall is jumping in his old form. Melvin's time in the hurdles was good and he will win easily in the Academic field day.

The score was as follows:
50-yard dash—Rice, Scupham and Shes. Time, 0:05 4-5.
100-yard dash—Rice, Sheehan and Scupham. Time, 0:10 4-5.
220-yard dash—Shes, Salinger and Schabale. Time, 0:25 4-5.
440-yard dash—Walker, McNamara and Reynolds. Time, 0:57.
880-yard run—Fickes, Dozier and Michael. Time, 2:15.
1 mile run—Keys, Stow and Brooks. Time, 5:15.
Two-mile run—Richardson and McKim. Time, 11:40.
320-yard hurdle—Melvin, Dozier and Gharidelli. Time, 0:17 8-5.
220-yard hurdle—Melvin, E. Dozier and L. Dozier. Time, 0:27.
